

HURLEY RESIGNS WITH DENUNCIATION OF POLICY IN ASIA

ARMY BOARD'S INFERENCES ARE ASSAILED

Former Secretary of State Denounces Language of Interpretations Made By Probers

TELLS OF CONFERENCE

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Cordell Hull today branded as an "infamous charge" the inference in an army inquiry board's report that the note he handed Japanese "peace" ambassador Nov. 26, 1941 touched the button that started the Pacific war.

The former secretary of state, testifying before a senate-house committee inquiring into the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, assailed in vigorous language the interpretations made by the army board.

"I sat under that infamous charge for months when every reasonable minded person knew that at that time to get complete control of the Pacific," Hull declared.

"Somebody who knows little about what was going on and who cares less, says 'why didn't the United States make concessions and keep us out of war?'" he continued.

"Any reasonable persons knows that the Japanese were bent on attack and knows that we could not have stopped them unless we had laid down like cowards."

Hull earlier testified he had only an unverified report of the attack on Pearl Harbor when he conferred with the Japanese peace envoys at 1 p. m. Dec. 7, 1941.

Hull told the senate-house committee investigating the attack that the White House had called him about noon of that day with the report that the Japanese had struck, but his informant was unable to confirm it definitely.

The question arose, Hull said, whether he should receive the Japanese at all or whether he should leave open the one chance in 10 that the reported attack had not taken place.

Hull said he went into the meeting to find that the Japanese delegates were talking "peace, peace, peace."

Because of the report he had received, Hull said he "felt like talking liberties in talking with them about their government that would have been a little undiplomatic in ordinary times."

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) asked Hull for his estimate of Saburo Kurusu and Kichisaburo Nomura, the Japanese envoys.

The former secretary said it was his belief that both knew their own minds.

Petitions of Gas Companies Heard

Port Allegany, Nov. 27—(AP)—The Federal Power Commission announced that a decision will be given later on application for extension of the service of the Hope Natural Gas Co. and the New York State Natural Gas Corp. in northwestern Pennsylvania and western New York.

The commission yesterday took transcripts from the hearings in which Hope and New York State Natural were given permission to sell gas wholesale in the areas.

The commission also heard testimony on an application of Dempseyville Gas to extend service to Clarion, Venango and Forest counties, all in Pennsylvania. The company wants to build nine miles of line at a cost of $51,117 to connect with a New York State Natural line in Clarion county.

Rep. Gavin Urges Start Of The Elk County Flood Project

By CHARLES B. HOLSTEIN
Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—A special plea for funds for an early start of proposed flood control projects in Elk county, Pa., was made before a house appropriations subcommittee by Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.).

In testimony made public by the committee yesterday, Gavin recounted details of a disastrous flood in that area in 1942, presented pictures of the devastation at that time in Johnstown and told of a mother who crouched atop a boxcar all night with a baby in her arms while flood waters swirled about her.

Gavin asked for $750,000 to $1,000,000 to get the Elk county program under way.

"It would include he said a multiple purpose dam on the east branch of the Clarion river—key to the whole program—with additional work on stream widening, channeling, dredging and diking at Johnstown, Ridgway and St. Marys.

Gavin said the program had been authorized in the 1944 flood control act but was not included in war department requests for

Philadelphia Mint Not Large Enough

Philadelphia, Nov. 27—(AP)—Uncle Sam's mint in Philadelphia is not big enough, says Leland Howard, assistant U. S. mint director—"it cannot do the job."

Howard said plans will be submitted to congress, with land and building costs, for the erection of a new Philadelphia mint which will be twice the size of the present largest U. S. mint in Denver, Colo.

Killings Are Protested By Jewish Labor

Jerusalem, Nov. 27—(AP)—Unofficial reports placed the toll in yesterday's disturbances in the Jewish area of Palestine at nine Jews killed and at least 75 wounded, and the Jewish National Council called a half-hour work stoppage today as a "token of mourning" for the dead.

The General Federation of Jewish Labor called a strongly worded protest to the British labor party and British and United States labor organizations.

Tension subsided gradually as British troops withdrew from the trouble zone north of Tel Eviv. The British had thrown a cordon around six Jewish villages yesterday, and with mortars and machineguns and supported by tanks, had entered the villages in search of persons responsible for attacks on coast guard stations. The cordon was lifted last night.

The sudden outbreak of demonstrations after the villages were blocked off for the search was laid to retaliation against the British seizure recently of a Greek ship which was carrying illegal immigrants.

The Jewish National Council called upon all shops and factories to close in today's token stoppage, and for all traffic to halt in the entire Jewish sector of Palestine. The time of the stoppage was not publicly announced.

The closings, the council said, would be in "respect for those who died for the right of Jews to bring their brethren to Palestine and to defend their lives."

Newsprint Must Be Reduced Further

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Newsprint inventories at the end of the year must be reduced further from previous permissive ceilings, the Civilian Production Administration said today.

CPA held that newspaper publishers may have not more than 25 days' supply of print paper on hand and in transit as of December 31 if they are located in central or northeastern states. Those in western and southern states will be limited to 45 days' supply.

Previous permissive inventories were 30 days and 60 days, respectively.

CPA said the action was taken to fulfill agreement with the Canadian Newsprint Administration to eliminate accumulated newsprint over-orders from the United States by January 1, 1946. Over-orders during the fourth quarter will amount to approximately 30,000 tons, CPA said.

HUNTING FATALITY

Renovo, Nov. 27—(AP)—George Thomas Fye, 73, of Northend, was killed by a stray bullet while working on a highway drainage project near here yesterday. State police said he was apparently struck by a bullet fired by one of numerous bear hunters in Clinton county.

RESCRIPT IS READ TO JAP IMPERIAL DIET

Election Reform Number One Function of Current Session Insuring Revision of Laws

COLORFUL CEREMONY

By RUSSELL BRINES
Tokyo, Nov. 27—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito, in a colorful reading of an imperial rescript, today made election reform the number one function of the current diet and insured some revision of current laws.

Standing before the imperial throne in the ornate house of peers, the emperor read the brief rescript in formal, heavy tones while members of both houses bowed deeply. The Japanese ruler was flanked on the right by princes of the blood and imperial household officials and on the left by Premier Kijuro Shidehara's cabinet.

Specific mention of election reform in the rescript insured action thereupon and made this the principal diet issue. Simultaneously the rescript statement limited to the house of representatives such reform, indicating that there will be no change in the current appointive status of the house of peers despite considerable newspaper agitation.

The rescript also broadly solicited harmony in dealing with other matters, which include elimination of repressive laws and action on such unprecedented government legislation as expropriation of large landed estates and establishment of labor union law.

The emperor wore his new official non-military uniform. Solemn-faced, he entered the hushed chamber and walked stiffly to a position fronting the throne on a dais above the rostrum utilized by the chamber president and peers. His formal impressive entry was at 10:59 a. m., after the other participants assembled and stood awaiting him for 10 minutes.

The principal business of both chambers for the balance of the day was formulation of an official answer to the rescript.

Everyone was held within the building during the arrival and departure of the imperial cortege and all windows above the first floor were curtained to prevent any subject from gazing downward upon him.

This important session, opening amid continuous rain and beneath dark skies followed closely the long routine traditional at the reading of the rescript. But slowly it will make a break with other traditions, as, beginning tomorrow, it plunges into the momentous problems.

Death Toll In Bus Accident Stands at 15

Chelan, Wash., Nov. 27—(AP)—Chelan today was a city of sorrow, its beautiful Lake Chelan an icy ogre which had swallowed a community of children when an inbound school bus left the road.

Fifteen youngsters and its driver were buried to death in the deep waters. The town hall stood ready for duty today as a morgue.

Six persons, five children and a woman passenger, escaped. Mrs. Ted Brown, the passenger, said Driver Jack Randle, 26, stood up and fought the wheel when the bus struck a rock in the snow-swept road and swerved over a 20-foot bank into the lake.

The bus sank slowly, the air trapped inside delaying its descent. The survivors escaped through windows broken either by the plunge down the bank or by the frantic children. Margaret (Peggy) Rice, 16; Bob Watson, 7; Donnie Mack, 13; Ethel Keck, 10; Mary Stark, 17, and Mrs. Brown, 60, were saved.

Divers who rushed from Grand Coulee Dam and Seattle resumed their search for the sunken bus and its grim load today after two of them, Brothers Colin and D. S. O'Donnell, went down 160 feet without locating the vehicle. At 130 feet they found one body, that of 16-year-old Henry Davis.

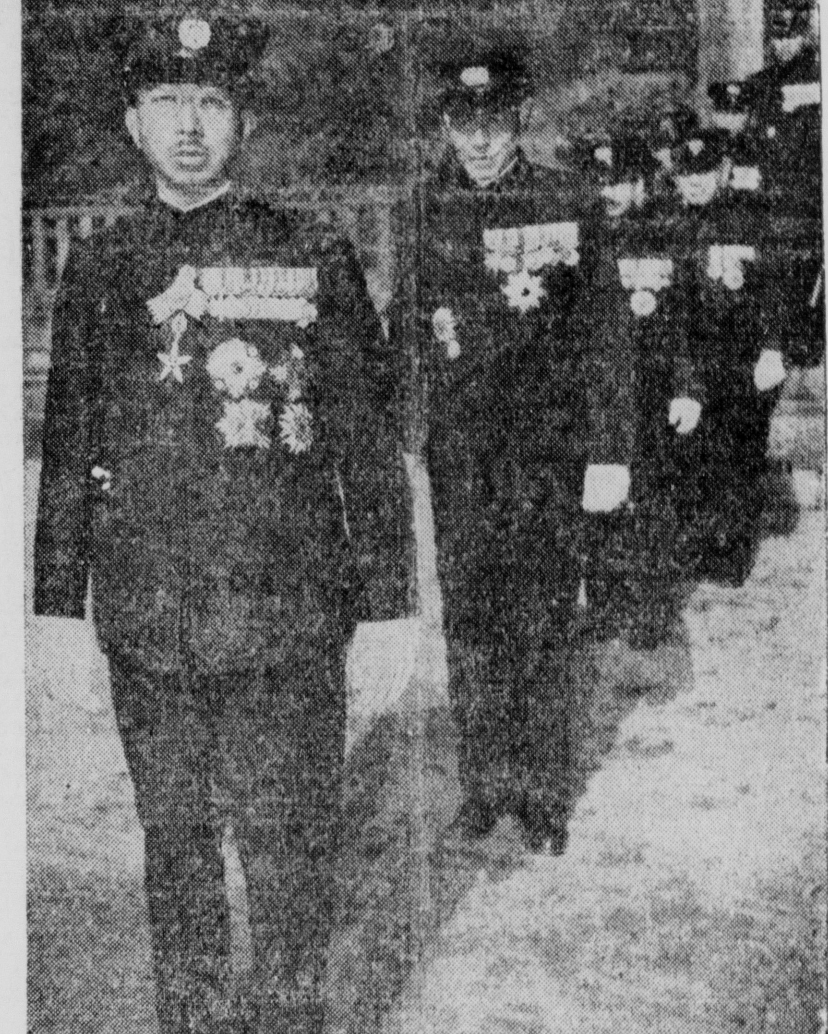

HEARING IS HELD ON SHAWMUT CO. CASE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 27—(AP)—Accompanied by a half dozen miners, Dr. Elizabeth Hayes, resigned physician for the Shawmut Mining Company at Force, today attended a hearing into the receivership of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railroad Co., before Federal Judge Guy K. Bard.

The Shawmut Company is a subsidiary of the railroad.

Dr. Hayes resigned last July 16 because of what she described as "intolerable conditions" in Force. The company's 450 miners went on strike claiming they wouldn't work without a doctor.

Closest Close-up of Hirohito

The exclusive photo of Emperor Hirohito, above, was made from a distance of six feet—the closest any photographer ever has been permitted to approach the Japanese ruler. It was made by Tom Shafer, NEA Service-Acme Newspictures staff photographer, during Hirohito's recent visit to the tomb of his ancestors to report Japan's military defeat.

Secret Nazi Activities To Violate Treaty Are Disclosed

By NOLAN NORGAARD
Nuernberg, Nov. 27—(AP)—Secret German activity to violate the Versailles peace treaty by the undercover construction of a navy and air force was disclosed today by American prosecutors at the war crimes trial of 20 Nazi leaders.

Documents were laid before the four-power tribunal as evidence that, from his earliest days of power, Hitler falsified public reports of battle ship tonnage, built submarines and trained U-boat crews in isolated hideouts in Spain, Finland and Holland and rebuilt the German air force under the guise of a commercial aviation program.

Yanks Planes Reported On Way to China

By the Associated Press
Chungking, Nov. 27—(AP)—Chinese Nationalists today heard that some 700 American planes are being flown into China, presumably for their use, as central government troops drove within 90 miles of Mukden, vital rail center in the battle for Manchuria.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Cushing wrote from Shanghai that virtually every flyable American plane in India and Burma was being flown into China in an operation which already has cost several American lives. There were 22 P-51s flying from Kuming to the Shanghai area encountered a weather front.

Cushing was told the flight was ordered by the war department and that the 16th Air Force was bringing transports and the 14th Air Force fighters. Flanking officers told Cushing the aircraft undoubtedly will be given to the Chinese Nationalists.

U. S. Air Force officials said it is in the United States' policy to provide Allied gains in China. Cushing wrote, but the men flying the aircraft "are debating angrily whether they ought to be risking their lives three months after the end of the war."

Chungking newspapers said Nationalist forces advanced 40 miles along the Peiping-Mukden railroad to Kowangtz, 90 miles from Mukden. There was no report of opposition.

Wrong Mother Told Her Son Had Died

Pennhurst, Nov. 27—(AP)—Confusion over the identity of two boys at the Pennhurst State School led to a doctor at the institution to notify the wrong mother that her son had died and to send the body to the wrong town, it was reported today.

The body of Louis Walters, who died here Sunday of epileptic fever, was sent to Luzerne, yesterday after Mrs. Elizabeth Walters of that town had been notified her son was dead.

Officials of the school said they later discovered that the Luzerne woman's boy, also named Louis Walters, was still living and that the dead boy's foster mother was from Bethlehem.

The boy who remained in Luzerne, said Dr. James E. Dean, school superintendent, until the foster mother, Mrs. Margaret Walters, is contacted or until Northampton county (where Bethlehem is located) authorities arrange burial.

Robbed G. I.'s Mail

Philadelphia, Nov. 27—(AP)—Leroy Haynes, former heavy-weight boxer, was sentenced to five months in federal prison on a charge of robbing the mails. The 35-year-old Philadelphia was convicted of opening 50,000 pieces of Christmas mail being sent to soldiers overseas. Haynes denied taking part in the thefts with Robert Morton, 34, who received a 15-month prison sentence.

Effort to Restore in the River And Harbor Bill 128 Million Draws "Pork Barrel" Charges

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Republican contentions of "pork barrel" today greeted a Democrat-backed drive in the house to add $128,475,000 in river and harbor-flood control funds to a $1,131,452,312 appropriation bill.

"It's worse than pork barrel," said Rep. John Taber of New York, ranking Republican member of the house appropriations committee which yesterday approved the deficiency supply bill without the river and harbor money.

Taber directed his remarks at a move launched by some Democratic committeemen to restore to the measure the $128,475,000 knocked out by a close committee vote.

A showdown is unlikely before tomorrow or Thursday because today's house meeting has been set aside for a general discussion of the bill and its scores of separate items.

"On some of these river and harbor and flood control projects," Taber told a reporter, "even the sponsors and the army engineers can't agree. They are millions of dollars apart on the potential value of the projects."

Taber said he not only would oppose the addition of any new funds but would move to strike from the bill some money already in it.

The appropriations committee already has dopped $576,242,136 from Budget estimates which formed the basis for the bill.

There may be a well-backed drive to restore at least part of the $128,475,000 estimate for construction of hospital and other facilities for veterans. In rejecting this allotment, the committee said it believed its regular subcommittee handling veterans' administration funds should study the program before money is voted.

The committee left the door open for later negotiation and flood control appropriations with the explanation that some of the projects "should have further investigation."

All had the approval of the army engineers, eager to put war programs back on a peacetime scale.

(Note: Included in the plan of reclamation and army engineers for spending part of the money is listed $277,600 for the Tionesta Reservoir.)

Erie Youth Admits 53 House - Breaks

Erie, Nov. 27—(AP)—Patrolman Edward J. Allen reported today a 14-year-old boy, shot as he was fleeing from a policeman, made a statement that he participated in 53 house-breaks in Erie.

The officer said the youth claimed he was accompanied on the trips by a 25-year-old uncle on 42 occasions.

No charges have been filed against either.

Officer Allen asserted a list of houses entered was being compiled by him and the boy, who is recovering in Hamot Hospital from two slight bullet wounds. He quoted the youth as saying he sometimes wore a sailor suit on the trips, and that screaming women several times frightened him and his uncle from homes.

FAYETTE JURY HEARS CAUSER MURDER CASE

Uniontown, Nov. 27—(AP)—District Attorney H. Vance Cottom said today that if Frederick Causer, 19-year-old ex-sailor is indicted for murder by the grand jury now in session, the case will go to trial next Monday before President Judge W. Russell Carr.

The commonwealth charges Hauser killed 17-year-old Anne Elizabeth Dreyer, the Fayette City "Sunshine Girl" last Sept. 1 along a lonely road between Connelville and Route 51.

Defense Attorney Paul K. McCormick said a plea of not guilty would be entered if an indictment is returned.

Met Season Opening Proves Dazzling Display of Jewels

By JEAN SMALL
New York, Nov. 27—(AP)—As Mrs. Truman and Mary Margaret smiled and applauded, the Metropolitan Opera Company opened its 61st season last night—with the most dazzling display of diamonds and ermine in years.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt wore her traditional head-band. Mrs. George Washington Kavanaugh wore diamond bracelets up to her elbow, John Jacob Astor wore a white tie and an opera hat—and New York society knew that once again, all was right with the world.

The annual opening night spectacle of pelts and sparklers was dimmed during the war years, but last night the mighty flung aside wartime modesty and welcomed peace with a lavishness worthy of Diamond Jim Brady and Lillian Russell.

Gone were the short evening dresses or unabashed street clothes of 1941-44. In their place were resplendent opera hats, white ties, gold-headed canes, coats of chinchilla, sable, ermine, and clusters of diamonds, rubies, emeralds. A few of the masculine old guard even wore opera capes.

The president's wife and daughter, Mary Margaret, were among the arch-conservatives of the glittering crowd.

ENVOY SAYS A THIRD WAR IS IN THE MAKING

Ambassador to China Declares U. S. Being Sucked Into Power Bloc on Side of Imperialism

DIPLOMATS ASSAILED

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley resigned as ambassador to China today, bitterly assailed American policy in Asia, and declared that a third World War was "in the making."

The white-haired soldier-diplomat charged that the United States was using its power and reputation "to undermine democracy and bolster imperialism and communism" in the Far East.

"In diplomacy today, we are permitting ourselves to be sucked into a power bloc on the side of colonial imperialism against communist imperialism," he asserted.

"I am opposed to both. I still favor democracy and free enterprise."

Hurley announced his resignation in a 150-word statement containing frequent charges that career diplomats and state department officials were blocking attainment of expressed U. S. war aims.

Hurley said the United States "began the war with the principles of the Atlantic charter and democracy as our goal." He added: "We finished the war in the Far East furnishing lend-lease supplies and using all our reputation to undermine democracy and bolster imperialism and communism."

The retiring ambassador to Chungking said he agreed entirely with the outline of American foreign policy which President Truman made in his Navy Day address, but stated that "professional diplomats in the lower echelons were frustrating attainment of announced policy aims."

Hurley said that when he was assigned to China he was directed by President Roosevelt to prevent collapse of the Chiang Kai-Shek government and keep the Chinese army in the war.

"From both the strategic and diplomatic viewpoint the foregoing constituted our chief objective," he said, "the next in importance was the directive to harmonize the relations between the Chinese and American military establishments and between the American embassy in Chungking and the Chinese government."

"Both of these objectives were accomplished."

Hurley said, however, that it was "no secret that the American policy in China did not have the support of our high career men in the State Department."

"The professional foreign service men sided with the Chinese Communists party and the imperialist block of nations whose policy it was to keep China divided to life imprisonment."

"Gloomy" Review Of World Events

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) told the senate today this nation was backing both Russia and England in a mad rush into another world war that might end civilization.

"The only aggressors today are our beloved and noble peace-loving Allies," the veteran western senator said in a prepared 27-page speech opposing participation in the present United Nations Organization.

Making an admittedly "gloomy" review of recent world events, the veteran western senator sharply criticized results of the war to date, the international policies of the United States leaders, and the United Nations organization.

"I will not believe that Russia wants war," the senator said. "We must quit appealing Russia and let her know once and for all we did not fight this war to let her enslave the people of Europe. She agreed to our high principles in her hour of distress. She must abide by them now."

Wheeler, leader in the prewar isolationist group in this country, suggested that the United States "have the courage to call a real peace conference and let us do it with or without Russia's participation."

SUPREME COURT HEARS COMMUTATION PLEAS

Philadelphia, Nov. 27—(AP)—The Pennsylvania supreme court took under advisement a plea by two Williamsport men for commutation of their death sentence to life imprisonment.

The men—Robert W. Pepperman, 26, and John D. West, 28—pleaded guilty to killing Joseph B. Campbell, 72, after robbing him and were sentenced to be electrocuted. Their attorney said evidence showed the men had no intention of murdering Campbell when they planned robbery.

Cold-Blooded Duplicity Is Shown in Pearl Harbor Probe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AF Foreign Affairs Analyst

One of the outstanding characteristics of the Japanese and German war lords, as is being brought out in the Pearl Harbor investigation and through the discovery of secret Nazi records, is their cold-blooded duplicity.

There was (and is) no honesty among them. We see that in the cautions which Hitler, Goering and other Nazi leaders used in annexing little Austria, while they kept the rest of Europe quiet with double-talk. We see it in the Jap treachery in striking at Pearl Harbor behind the shield of peace negotiations at Washington.

Every day emphasizes the necessity of removing these war-mongers from society. It's gratifying therefore to see the Nuernberg trials of top Nazis opening today before the international war crimes tribunal. It's equally satisfactory (and forgive me if I'm wrong) to learn that Baron General Honjo, reputed head of the militarists who staged the conquest of Manchuria, has committed hara-kiri rather than face trial as a war criminal along with numerous other militarists whom General MacArthur has ordered imprisoned pending their appearance before the Allied court of justice.

Far be it from us to gloat over Honjo's suicide. As a matter of fact it must be admitted that it takes a deuce of a lot of courage to rip your body open with a sword and then cut your throat to end the job. Still the world will be a better place without Honjo—and without his gang who will come to trial in due course.

However, I don't think we should be very astute analysts if we placed the entire Japanese nation in the same category as Honjo. For instance, there seems no reason to doubt envoy Kurusu's word when he says that he and Nonura were doing an honest job of negotiating in Washington when the Jap war lords knifed Pearl Harbor. Kurusu and Nonura say they didn't know an attack was to be made. Let's give them the benefit of any doubt.

But the Jap militarists were born crooked.

While I was stationed in London in 1918 as correspondent I received word from New York that Wall Street was much disturbed over a phenomenon which they couldn't explain. It was a steady flow of gold to Japan, which was one of the Allies. The Japs clearly were collecting gold—but why?

I took this problem to an American banker operating in London.

That night in his den he unfolded an amazing story. The British bankers also had noted the flow of gold to Japan many months before. There were a lot of angles to the operation—movement of securities and so on—but the financial experts finally put the puzzle together. When they did it assembled they got a shock. All the evidence indicated that the Japs were getting ready to desert the Allies and switch to Germany.

State Agricultural Department Marks Its Fiftieth Anniversary

Harrisburg—The Pennsylvania State Department of Agriculture this year is observing the 50th anniversary of its establishment in 1895.

In summing up agricultural activities within the State for the past half-century, Secretary Miles Ford disclosed that farmers and food processors have created an enviable record. In more than a dozen fields Pennsylvania leads all other states in the United States in farm products and processed foods.

Pennsylvania farmers last year produced in such quantities as to place the Commonwealth—

First in buckwheat, 2,440,000 bushels;

First in cigar leaf tobacco, 52,800,000 pounds;

First in the value of crops grown under glass, $8074,212 (1939 figures latest available);

First in mushrooms, 20,000,000 pounds estimated;

First in turkeys (east of the Mississippi River), 1,670,000;

First in producer-retail milk; direct from farmer to consumer, 233,000,000 quarts worth $33,319,000.

First in the amount of apples State graded for processing, 155,000,000 pounds;

First in production of Spring and Fall spinach, 1,237,000 bushels worth $1,273,000;

First in number of baby chick hatcheries, 633.

First county in the United States for value of all farm crops (non-irrigated), Lancaster County; and

First county in the United States in value of farm crops used by farm households, Lancaster County.

Food Processing "First"

In addition to being the first state to establish a livestock sanitary service, Pennsylvania was first to pass meat inspection laws for the protection of consumers.

In food processing the State ranked first in the production of ice cream, 197,876,000 quarts in 1944;

First in production of Philadelphia Cream Cheese;

First in the number of carbonated beverage and still drink plants, 909 in 1944.

Pennsylvania also stands fourth in the Nation in the value of fruits and vegetables handled in its rapidly increasing food processing plants which are reported to include the largest apple processing plant in the world, in Adams County; the largest grape juice plant in the world, in Erie County; the largest package ice cream plant in the world in Dauphin County.

Pennsylvania also has the largest State Farm Show building in the world under one roof in Harrisburg.

Fresno Joe Has Points But Seems To Be In Wrong Army

By HAL BOYLE

Fusan, Korea—(AP)—California-born Bob Fujikawa has been in service long enough to win the points required for a ticket home but there isn't any immediate likelihood he will be able to cash in on them.

"I got my points in the wrong army," explained the former Fresno truck gardener, who is a private in the Japanese armed forces.

Fujikawa is known as "Fresno Joe" to troops of the American 40th infantry division who took him on as an interpreter as soon as they heard his state-side slang. He helps them—still wearing his Japanese army uniform—in the task of sending hundreds of thousands of Nipponese soldiers and civilians, uprooted from Korea, back to their homeland. This port is the chief funnel for the homeward trek.

"We decided to put Joe to work for us," said his boss, Col. R. G. Stanton, 4607 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D. C., "after we asked if he could speak English and he replied 'I gotcha.'"

"Fresno Joe" is something of a mascot in the 160th infantry regiment now, but his future is a twilight matter, with Fujikawa himself completely uncertain what will happen to him, although he knows what he wants.

"I want to go home," he said simply. Which puts him in exactly the same mental frame as several million other young American-born soldiers who served under their own flag. His status, however, remains to be cleared.

This is his own story of how he came to be eating rice in khaki under the banner of the rising sun.

"I came to Japan in 1940 to visit my uncle. It was the first time I had ever been there. The war broke out and—well, here I am."

According to "Fresno Joe" the emperor didn't consult his personal wishes in the matter at all, and Japanese military authorities overlooked entirely the little item that he was an American citizen. They just handed him a rifle and pushed him into the middle of their greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere.

"Joe" never was compelled to use his rifle against his fellow-citizens from California, and seemingly was something of a "sad sack" in the Japanese army. He said Nipponese intelligence of-

YMCA Call to Membership
Is Rapidly Nearing Its Goal

Last night's report in the Y. M. C. A. Call to Membership brought the total secured to date to 409, which leaves 191 yet to get in order to make Wednesday night's meeting a Victory-meeting with the goal of 600 achieved. The teams reported 120 members in the second of the three reports, last evening.

The same teams which lead in the campaign after the first report continued in the leading positions after last night's tally. They are the No. 1 team, captained by A. H. Templeton, with a grand total of 76 members and 6214 points. The nearest rival is Fred Keller's No. 7 team, with 55 members and 4500 points. In last night's reporting, No. 10 team, with E. H. Leffard and David Levine as co-captains, led the field with 23 members, and G. C. Lind's aggregation was second with 19, but neither report was good enough to overcome the lead piled up by the first two mentioned groups.

General Howard Alexander presided at the report session, and the opening prayer was offered by Dr. H. H. Barr. Robert Young, a "Y" Director and chairman of the Religious Emphasis Committee, gave a short talk on the relationship of the Association to the community and how it serves churches and other organizations, pointing out that the Christian purpose and community service of the Y. M. C. A. is a good reason for Christian men to ally themselves with the Movement as full-fledged members.

In the closing minutes of the meeting, General Secretary Ralph Wagner called attention to the fact that the job to be done in the closing days of the campaign is greater than it was a year ago, since 14 fewer members are reported to date than the same time last year. He stated that beginning Tuesday morning (today) the field would be open, and prospect cards would no longer be protected by the rules. Any worker is privileged to approach any person he or she considers to be a prospect.

The "Y" Membership campaign-ers have a habit of producing a whirlwind finish, but it is certain this will not be the case in this year's Call without considerable, concentrated effort on the part of every man on every team. Commanders Movell and Yeager are each calling for the utmost in effort in these closing hours, so that tomorrow night's report will go over the 600 goal. The closing report meeting is scheduled for 6:30, as usual.

The dining room service was well handled last night by a group of ladies from the Salem Evangelical church.

Fourteen Bears Reported Shot
On First Day of This Season

Bear hunters with exceptionally favorable conditions for the hunters were out in force yesterday on the opening day of the season in this section. The kill has been much greater than any season for years. For the past few years conditions have been highly unfavorable due to the lack of feed for the big black fellows and also due to weather conditions.

Yesterday in this county the first bear was brought in by Mickey Lytle who shot a 130 pounder on the Hedgehog. It was displayed in front of the Don Finley Sporting Goods store and won much attention. A check-up over the county with the Game Protector shows fourteen bears killed although it is probable that others shot late in the day may swell the number. The check shows that three were killed in the Kinzua district; four at Hearts Content and Dunham's Siding; three on the Hedgehog; one on Rudge Rub and three in the Sheffield district.

All of the hunters out yesterday report sighting many deer indicating that the deer hunting season will be the best in years with the herd and the animals both large.

Oil City, Pa., Nov. 27 (AP)—The bear hunt is on—and the hunters are happy.

When the firing ended on the first day of the four-day season yesterday, at least 23 bears had been killed in Forest and Warren counties, according to Hayes T. Englert, game supervisor for Division F in northwest Pennsylvania.

He said there were additional kills in Clarion county, not yet officially reported. A report from Elk county said eight bears had been killed there.

Englert said hunters had an exceptionally fine opening day and that many of them were in the woods. No reports of injuries or fatalities to hunters were received.

Englert's territory includes nine counties—Butler, Clarion, Crawford, Erie, Forest, Lawrence, Mercer, Venango and Warren.

The northwestern Pennsylvania sportsmen's club, embracing the same area, met at Clarion and elected these officers: Raymond Armstrong of Guys Mills, Crawford county, president; Robley Evans, Clarion, vice president; Seth Mers, Sharon, secretary, and Henry Gats, Sharon, treasurer.

More than 20 bears were killed Monday, the first day of the hunt, in northern Jefferson county.

Dean Davis, fish and game prosector, reported nearly all of the kill, the largest in more than a decade, occurred in Heath Township, with others in the Sigel region.

Harry Russell of Clymer got a 300-pounder.

Season For Deadly Carbon Monoxide Gas

BY WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Deaths from carbon monoxide exceed those from any other form of poisoning. Carbon monoxide is generated during incomplete combustion of gasoline, coal or wood, and it is also an ingredient of cooking gas. Carbon monoxide deaths can be prevented by observing simple precautions in places where the gas may be present.

Poisonous action of carbon monoxide is due to suffocation which results from its union with the red coloring matter of the blood (hemoglobin). Normally, hemoglobin combines with the oxygen in the air as the blood passes through the lungs. Carbon monoxide displaces the oxygen in the blood and attaches itself to the hemoglobin. Purpose of treatment is to replace the carbon monoxide with oxygen.

Chief sources of carbon monoxide poisoning are leaky gas fixtures, open fires, closing the damper of stoves and furnaces too soon, heating units without proper vents, exhaust from gasoline motors, and certain manufacturing processes.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas. Usual complaints after exposure are headache, ringing in the ears, throbbing of the temples, fatigue and lassitude. Chest feels as if it is compressed by a heavy weight; palpitation and inability to stand or walk straight also are noted.

If the victim does not suspect he is being poisoned and fails to get fresh air, consciousness may be lost. Just before this takes place the muscles become weak and unable to respond, and, even though danger is suspected, attempts to crawl away are impossible. After coma develops there may be convulsions and finally depression of the heart and respiration, and death ensues.

Persons overcome by carbon monoxide should be moved outdoors immediately. Rescuers should open windows. If the victim is breathing, help should be summoned; otherwise, artificial respiration should be started first. After consciousness returns, headache, nausea and weakness may persist.

Carbon monoxide poisoning increases in frequency in cooler weather, as many homes have leaking gas fixtures. Faulty operation of heating units also is a cause. Highway department officials warn motorists not to sit in stalled or parked cars with the motor running and not to remain in a garage with the motor running even though the doors are open. Leaks in the muffler, exhaust pipe and manifold should be repaired immediately.

The age of the average prewar passenger car was 5.8 years.

Date With a Doll

THE pair above look as though they've been keeping company quite awhile, but actually this is a blind date that turned into love at first sight. A member of the USO "Uncles Club" in Wichita Falls, Tex., Cpl. Jan Hood is playing baby-sitter to the enchanted five-year-old with the cover girl smile, while her parents see a movie. The USO Y.W.C.A. puts it: "We're pretty busy at this father business, it's high time we got in practice, now that we'll soon be going home to our families."

Tiding service men through difficult and restless waiting periods is a main job now with USO. It finds countless ways, like the USO Uncle project, to help soldiers and sailors feel closer to home and family life. Because the National Y.W.C.A. is the USO member agency primarily concerned with women, many of these projects fall naturally under the Y.W.C.A. wing. Today, for example, USO-Y.W.C.A. volunteers are welcoming the GI wife who comes to visit her hospitalized husband, running baby checks for visiting mothers, and inviting reunited soldier families into the USO club for a home-cooked dinner. National War Fund sustains USO.

STYLE—SPEED—SAFETY!

Since Saturday's Victory Loan and Christmas parade when a number of them were presented to inspection of the public for the first time everyone is talking about the new cars.

Considering the condition of most family jalopies the new car becomes one of the major post war anti-cipations. The neighbor here and there who by some magic has managed to pry one loose from a harassed dealer is the envy of the community.

But the advent of the new automobile may bring a disappointing detail to light. Designers in many cases seem to have paid less attention to road worthiness and more to "modernizing." Hoods and fenders often are so built, seats so low and bodies so hugged to the ground, as to make it impossible for the driver to see a row of stones outlining a driveway. Visibility, certainly the basic safety requirement, has been sacrificed for the sleek new look and the streamlining necessary for speed.

With more and more cars about to be turned out on the roads in these new odd styles, drivers must dedicate themselves with increased energy to road responsibility.

TIME TO PRACTICE PEACEMAKING

Russia maintains, and the United States and Great Britain seem to agree, that world peace depends upon the Big Three. When the United Nations Organization is finally established and working, the Big Three's veto power will make their united effort and approval necessary before any positive action can be taken in time of crisis.

The United Nations Organization is not yet in operation, but crises are already at hand. And it might be helpful if the heads of the Big Three powers should now start practicing the use of the strength and the good offices upon which tranquility must depend.

This country is threatened with an embarrassing and perhaps serious involvement in China. The same can be said of Britain in Java, and perhaps of Russia in Iran. The fact that the fighting is rather localized in all three countries is all the more reason for quick efforts toward settlement of the troubles. For no one can say that serious international consequences are not possible, particularly in China.

The separate actions of the Big Three have been none too adroit in any of these cases. Since the guardianship of world peace has been thrust upon them, it seems time that the Big Three got together and made some effort to appear more convincingly in character.

CHRISTMAS TOYS

There is rejoicing, and also fear, in the hearts of parents as they look forward to Christmas. The fear, however, may be mostly on mother's side. For metal toys are back again, after four years' absence, and well she knows the deprecation they may cause in banging furniture and woodwork. They are expected to sell, however, for only about one-third as much as wooden toys, for similar articles, and that is some comfort in quarters where Santa Claus has to count costs.

The Friday evening shopping hours adopted by retail merchants in Warren some time ago continue to prove quite popular, not only with storekeepers and their employees but the shoppers as well, and there is no intention of discontinuing the policy. Through misinterpretation of an item in this paper last week some persons seemed to have the impression that the old schedule of keeping open Saturday evenings would be resumed after Christmas. That is not so, since the merchants have found that the Friday night opening is more popular than had been anticipated.

"Although the fighting on world battlefronts has ended, the long struggle to conquer the enemy Tuberculosis must go on until the atomic bomb of good health makes its final stroke," was the declaration made by Colonel Henry W. Shoemaker at Harrisburg, in announcing his acceptance of the chairmanship of the Christmas Seal Sale in Pennsylvania as the 39th annual seal campaign opened.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

And Samuel saith, Hath the Lord as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams.—1 Samuel 15:22.

A boon, an offering Heaven holds dear,
'Tis the last libation Liberty draws
From the heart that bleeds and breaks in her cause!

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

by Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Even before the joint Congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee hearings got under way, it was apparent that a lot of it would take on the complexion of a political dog-fight.

Despite the fact that within the committee itself, and among many interested members of Congress, there is a sincere desire to get to the bottom of Pearl Harbor responsibilities, if any, the political angles keep popping up.

IT'S ONLY a cloakroom secret—which is no secret at all—on Capitol Hill that the Republicans would be happy to see the whole responsibility for our faults on the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, laid on the doorstep of President Roosevelt and his administration of that date.

The Democrats would be happier if it could be placed somewhere else.

That doesn't mean that the fundamental objective of the committee isn't to get to the true bottom of things. One proof of this is that a professional-looking gentleman who has ridden the political trolley both ways was named as committee counsel.

If you really want to know what goes on in the joint Congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, keep your eye on William DeWitt Mitchell. If his interest in politics supercedes his interest in judicial processes, it will be the first time. And if he had a political ax to grind, he could have found a dozen better stones than the committee counselship he accepted.

WHEN President Hoover appointed Mitchell attorney general, it caused a political stir. Although Mitchell had served with quiet distinction as solicitor general under President Coolidge, he still was listed and considered a Democrat. Throughout the controversial comments, Mitchell said nothing, keeping his nose to the Department of Justice grindstone.

That's the way it is today. The Pearl Harbor political football was kicked over his head several times before the hearings started. The 71-year-old committee counsel (and he certainly doesn't look his age) apparently didn't even know the game was being played.

Asked by newsmen what he was up to, he said he was just trying to get the presentation of testimony in order so that the evidence would be chronological and therefore understandable.

ALTHOUGH his father was a Minnesota supreme court judge for 20 years, young William was more interested in science than law. He spent a good deal of time soldiering, too, in the Spanish-American war and World War I, from which he emerged a colonel.

Few of the nation's No. 1 legal lights are better equipped to guide the destinies of a "non-partisan" investigation of a military disaster than William D. Mitchell.

Warren, Penna.
Dear Sir:

In the recent articles the past few days concerning the proposed athletic field I notice that as yet, no definite name has been attached to the project. It has either been called the Athletic Park or Memorial Field. In this connection, I have a proposal to make, namely, let this field be known as the Campbell Memorial Field in honor of Eugene Campbell, better known to most people as "Stretch."

In proposing "Stretch's" name I don't wish to cast derision on anyone else who has also given his life for his country from the town or county, but it seems to be that "Stretch" as much as anyone else symbolized fair play and good sportsmanship while he was active both as an athlete and as a fine young man.

Sir, this proposed field is far too important to Warren county as a whole not to have a definite name and purpose. We know what its purpose will be; let's have a name for it also.

Sincerely yours,
An Interested Citizen.

Editor of The Times-Mirror:
I have been reading about the Memorial Park for ex-soldiers for the past few weeks, but never a word about where these boys are going to have living quarters.

I think if we would build some home or units for the boys we would be doing a greater act of kindness and show the boys we really do appreciate what they have done for us.

I am in the apartment business and know what I am talking about. Had ad in for apartment the other night and got some 60 calls, mostly service men and their wives.

Now I leave this up to Warren citizens, which is the most necessary at this time.

A Citizen.

Thanksgiving Day Service At Youngsville

Youngsville, Nov. 26.—A union Thanksgiving worship service was held Wednesday evening in the Methodist church, with a very good attendance. The service opened with a piano prelude "Netherland Melody" by Lorenz played by Miss Robert Lodge who acted as pianist during the evening.

Rev. Earl Carlson, pastor of the Saron Lutheran church gave the opening prayer and led in the responsive readings.

"Accept Our Thanks" by Sibelius was sung as a special number by the Methodist choir directed by Elton Barton.

Rev. E. W. Chitester read the 11th Psalm and gave the offertory announcement. The offering was for church union activities. "The Pilgrim Chorus" from Tannhauser by Wagner was the offertory solo.

Rev. J. L. Strong, pastor of the United Brethren church brought the evening Thanksgiving sermon using as his text selections from Mariah's song of praise after the Israelite victory. He spoke of the many things for which America should give thanks, of the great opportunities of world wide service and of the national wrongs in this land which should be put down. He emphasized the work of the Christian church of America and of its influence in making not only America, but the world better.

A double quartette from the Methodist choir sang "To the Lord of Glory" by Victor. Rev. Earl Carlson pronounced the benediction and the piano postlude was "Thanks be to Thee" by Handel.

THANKSGIVING GATHERINGS

In many homes Thanksgiving was remembered by family gatherings. Returned service men added in many homes to the spirit of Thanksgiving. The Hutley twin brothers were home from the navy having been discharged honorably. Both Richard and Robert Hutley, twin brothers, have been together during their entire navy service. The greater part of the time they were located in Bermuda.

We are glad to report that Herbert Maas is now back and spent Thanksgiving with his family. Mrs. Nellie Anderson and Mrs. Marie Brown and children spent Thanksgiving in Meadville with relatives.

Mrs. Elsie Whitmore spent her Thanksgiving in Erie with her sister, Mrs. Hickernell. Mrs. Hickernell's husband who is still a patient in hospital is reported as now improving.

at a cost of 18 thousand dollars. This building was destroyed as well as the church with a loss estimated at 65 thousand dollars.

The year that Rev. Charles Reed left Erie church for the Youngsville charge, Rev. T. H. Johnson who had served a successful pastorate in the Youngsville Methodist church was sent by the conference to the 10th Street church in Erie. The cause of the fire is not positively known but is thought to have come in some way from the furnace.

The parsonage in which both of the former Youngsville pastors spent many years was saved though it is very near the church. Many of Erie's fire companies did valiant work to keep the fire from spreading farther.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better. Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with a smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Announcement of the award and presentation is made by Lt. Col. H. S. Carlisle, commanding officer of the Pittsburgh recruiting district, U. S. Army.

Celebration Of Interest

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Raleigh, 16 Orchard street, have received from their son, Sgt. Junior Raleigh, a copy of the November 17 issue of the Depo Dope, published at Cazes depot in Casablanca. On its front page, with the caption "Depot Men Help Local Celebration," is the following story of an impromptu celebration in which the Warren soldier participated:

"Ten Depot men planning to spend a quiet weekend in Mazagan suddenly found themselves in the midst of the local Armistice day celebration there last week."

"While observing the parade of French war veterans last Saturday, the group was approached by city officials, who requested that the GI's represent the U. S. at the official flag raising ceremonies at the City Hall. Here they observed the raising of the French, Moroccan, British and U. S. flags in honor of the conclusion of the first World War. This celebration was followed by a banquet with many speeches, and several toasts were drunk in honor of the occasion."

Farmers To Elect Directors At Union City

Mr. B. A. Rockwell, director of Marketing and Research for the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative will be the principal guest speaker at the 12th Annual Stockholders' meeting of the Meadville Production Credit Association to be held in two sections at Meadville on November 27th and at Union City on November 28th at 8:00 p. m. according to an announcement by Wm. H. Bishop, secretary. The meeting at Meadville will be held at the Zion Evangelical church, South Main and Poplar streets and at Union City in the Union City Grange Hall, North Main street.

659 farmer members in Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Warren and Venango counties have received official notice of the meeting at which balloting will take place to elect two directors and reports on the financial condition and progress of the Association will be given by the officers and directors.

The meeting is open to the general public and anyone interested in learning more about cooperative farm credit is welcome to attend. The cooperative was organized in 1934 by a group of farmers interested in providing a permanent source of loans for crop and livestock production that would be available in hard times as well as good times, at low rates of interest and on repayment terms to fit the farmer's business. Today it is making loans for every kind of farming from raising silver foxes to growing strawberries.

Preceding the business session several reels of movie film will be shown and the meeting will conclude with refreshments and musical entertainment.

Elocution Class Charlotte Liebel Amusing Program And Charles Luce At Woman's Club Wed on Holiday

A number of important announcements were made to Women's Club members at yesterday's session of the Dramatic Department. Mrs. W. C. Fuchhart announced that Miss Anna Knowlton, of Jamestown, will speak on Mexican Art at next Monday's Art Department meeting, and members were reminded of the club luncheon which will precede the program.

Mrs. Albert Rockwell, head of the Entertainment committee, spoke of the Breakfast in Hollywood party to be held at the clubhouse on Friday evening of this week.

For the program, Mrs. S. L. Myer, in the costume of an old time school mistress, was introduced by Mrs. William Wright as Mistress Barbara Myer, instructor of elocution. After explaining about the style and posture used in elocution, Mistress Myer began her class session with the first stanza of the National Anthem, the audience joining in.

The following numbers were then presented by class members: A Dialog by Five Little Girls, Maybelle Alexander, Ruth Wade, Charlotte Hill, Catherine Fuchhart and Florence Knapp; pieces by Helen Israel, Alta Chapel, Jane Conaway and Louise Luce; song, Catherine Robertson; pieces, Martha Cressett and Marion Elmquist; song, Astrid Cowden and Mistress Myer; piece, Betty Rice. Before concluding her program, Mistress Myer presented Margaret Wright, who demonstrated the Delsarte exercises used during the period represented by the program.

Tea was served by Mrs. Ray Elliott, with Mrs. William Cressett and Mrs. Gerald Wright presiding at the tea table.

Players' Cast And Committees Busy With Plans

Players are assured of an evening of excellent entertainment in the forthcoming production, "Nine Girls", to be presented by the Warren Players in the Women's Club auditorium on December 6 and 7.

The play selected is a mystery drama providing plenty of spine-chilling suspense from beginning to end. Of special interest is a cast which joins talented new comers and veteran players whose performances, although stellar in character, have been all too infrequent.

Betty Rice, whose perpetual habit of producing hit shows has made local stage history, has selected her cast with a view to providing the greatest possible variety in types of characters. She has weighed expertly all aspects of the individual personalities in her cast to evoke as much contrast as possible. Audiences may judge on December 6 and 7 her skill and success in guiding her players into exactly the convincing level of each portrayal. In this as in all of the plays, planning, she has been ably assisted by Fern Mostert.

Heading the photographic cast is Mary Ruth Gerrety, remembered for her outstanding work in "Outward Bound". Eleanor Conarro, with a well established record in college dramatics, bids fair to become not only a welcome addition to The Players' active list but also one of the most widely applauded finds of the season. Margaret Kroll is up to her usual fine form which she displayed in "Our Town", as is Meredith Jones, who did a convincing and professional

Witness to Ceremonies

Mrs. Richard Hansen, Franklin street, returned Sunday from Chicago, where she attended the national convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, representing the Department of Pennsylvania on the credentials, finance and constitution and bylaws committees. She witnessed the presentation of the American Legion's Distinguished Service Medal to General Dwight D. Eisenhower, who said he "liked to think of the medal as a medium to honor 3,000,000 Americans and their gallant Allies who did their best in Europe for America." "Always," he said, "I shall be glad to serve as their representative on such an occasion, because it was my high honor to lead the greatest body of Americans ever placed under one command."

Other honored guests and speakers were Maj. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service; Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, Army Air Forces; Fred M. Vinson, secretary of the treasury; WAC Cpl. Schieffeling, and bestowed the courtesy kiss upon the commander; also Perry Burgess, president of the Leonard Wood Memorial, American Legion Foundation, who was presented a check of $15,000 from the American Legion Auxiliary for scientific study on leprosy; also Franklin D. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for the immediate families was held at the Hotel Sheraton. The bride and groom then departed for the south on their wedding trip.

Florida Wedding Of Interest Here

Announcement has been received here of the marriage of Lucella June Bloss, daughter of Mrs. Ella Bloss and the late R. Leland Bloss, of Keystone Heights, Fla., to Richard E. MacLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. MacLean, of Brunswick, on October 27 in the Community church at Keystone Heights. The Bloss family resided near Sheffield for years and has many relatives and friends in the vicinity.

The Rev. William G. Smalley officiated, assisted by Rev. George E. Farrar. A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. James Strickland.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother with the Misses Ida and Lucille Johnson as bridesmaids, Cecil L. Heeter, cousin of the bride from Florida, and John J. Kennedy, both stationed at Camp Blanding, were ushers, and Mr. MacLean was his son's best man.

The bride wore white marquisette over taffeta, with high neckline in the fitted bodice, ruffles of marquisette forming a drop-shoulder effect and cascading down the front of the full skirt to form a flounce toward her back. Bracelet length sleeves were softly flared. A fingertip veil of sheer illusion was fastened with a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a satin prayer book with white orchid showered with white roses. Bridesmaid frocks were of pink and blue net over taffeta and their nosegays were of asters.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Woman's Club. After spending some time with their guests, the couple left for Orlando, where they will make their home.

Market Research By Sylvania Develops New Bulb Container

(Special Correspondence)
New York, Nov. 27—That market research is no mere tabulation of statistics but an active force in finding the need for a product, designing the product and measuring its sales effectiveness was illustrated here today by Frank Mansfield, Director of Sales Research for Sylvania Electric Products Inc.

Revealing the part research played in the production and distribution plans of the company's new "Handy 5 Pack" for incandescent light bulbs, Mr. Mansfield said that the new container is the direct result of findings in the first consumer lighting study, released by the company six months ago. The "Handy 5 Pack" is a pulp container of sufficient body to protect the bulbs and molded to form a partition for each bulb.

"The first lighting survey," Mr. Mansfield said, "was a study of people's buying habits, and it showed us that merchandising of electric light bulbs has been badly neglected. We found that while women buy twice as many electric light bulbs for the home as do men, the traditional package is not designed for them. Moreover, they buy only two or three bulbs at a time, mainly because there is nothing to encourage them to buy more, nor is there any way in which the bulbs can be stored safely and conveniently. Although half the wired homes in the country have empty sockets, there are only three spare bulbs in the average home, and these are stored in closets or cupboards, on shelves, or in drawers."

Another of the surveys which influenced design of the "Handy 5 Pack" was the discovery that people like to buy bulbs in grocery stores. However, the volume of residential lamp sales is made in units so small that they represent very little profit for the dealer.

"With these things in mind," Mr. Mansfield declared, "Sylvania Electric had designers make up trial packages containing five bulbs. The number five was decided upon in order to keep the price at 50 cents, as this is a better unit price."

After talking with both dealers and consumers, and getting a green light for the principle of a unit package, a batch of "Handy 5 Packs" was made up and put into selected retail stores throughout New England for testing. For the test, which was conducted over a six-week period, grocery stores from the small independent type to the giant super markets were used. Before the containers were put on display, the normal sale of bulbs over a two-week period was checked in each store, in order to get an idea of the amount people normally buy.

Because the company wanted to watch sales under as near normal conditions as possible, the five packs were put in the stores with no advertising and no extraordinary sales push by Sylvania or the dealers.

It was found that in all income groups, 64% of the customers preferred the new container, 29% clung to the old package and 7% would take the bulbs either way.

The majority of those in favor of the five pack liked it because it protects the bulbs and keeps them from slipping out or rubbing against each other, and because it is easier to handle and to carry. Others liked it because it is a flat package which is easy to store, because it keeps the bulbs together, is not bulky and permits them to have a few extra bulbs on hand.

"Settling the question of whether or not people will buy five bulbs at a time," declared Mr. Mansfield, "we found that an average of three out of every four women are willing to do so. And, proving their faith in the electrical lighting industry as a whole, is the fact that even a sealed carton, if accompanied by a guarantee, is acceptable to four out of five people."

Sales of incandescent bulbs doubled when the "Handy 5 Pack" was put in the stores. Normally, according to the study, bulb volume in the average grocery store or drug store is small because the usual purchase is one, two, or at the most three bulbs per customer. When the "Handy 5 Pack" was displayed, each purchaser bought five bulbs, meaning a fifty cent sale for the grocer, rather than a twenty or thirty cent sale.

The "Handy 5 Pack" was shown to both grocers and druggists, although actual tests were run only in grocery stores. When first shown the container, all classes of stores in both groups selected it by a wide margin and expressed preference for it because it means greater sales and more profit, and because it cuts down breakage, handles easier, can be displayed more attractively, and saves time and wrapping. Without a sales talk of any kind, over half the grocers and nearly half of the druggists interviewed said they would stock a sealed five pack.

"The test also told how the package should be made up," said Mr. Mansfield. "When given a choice between a container of bulbs all of one voltage, or leaving the package open for the customer to make a selection of different sizes, the vote was decidedly in favor of one wattage. An exception was the independent grocer who divided about evenly. Comparatively few, however, suggested a mixed pack."

Over three-fourths of the grocers and druggists felt that testing of bulbs in front of the customer is unnecessary and that a guarantee is sufficient. It was found that the majority of dealers don't test bulbs now.

Summed up, the opinion of the dealers, after they had taken into account all the aspects of the "Handy 5 Pack", was decidedly favorable. Considerably more than half of the grocers and druggists were interested in handling the new container for incandescent bulbs, and requests to stock the handy pack have come in from grocers all over the country.

The history, development and testing of the "Handy 5 Pack", according to Mr. Mansfield, was a research job from beginning to end. "It is a complete case history of the development of a package and a merchandising problem," he said. "Market research showed up the need for a convenient, easy to store package for light bulbs, tested the package after it was designed, and determined its sales possibilities."

The "Handy 5 Pack" will be used to sell Sylvania bulbs in the future, but it may not be available in quantity until early in 1946.

The real "take-home"

If wages go up and output does not—living costs rise. Then a man may be no better off than he was in the first place.

As a matter of fact, he may be worse off. Because that's the start of the inflation spiral with its mounting cyclone of confusion. And once the spiral starts, prices usually keep two jumps ahead of wages.

It doesn't help to have $2 to spend instead of $1, if eggs go to $1, then $1.50, then $2 a dozen—and butter and bread and shoes and shirts double, then triple, in price.

That's the trouble with the theory that you can increase buying power simply by raising wages.

The most important thing isn't what a man makes in wages per week—

The most important thing is how much he can buy with the wages he makes.

The "take-home" that really counts isn't what you take home in pay, but what you can take home from the store.

If you were to take today's hand and try to see how unusual you could make the bidding, I am sure you would never arrive at the bidding shown. Peter Leventritt, one of our Life Masters, said, "I am going to give you a sequence of bidding and then ask you to tell me whose bidding it was." After hearing the bidding, I said it was Fred Kaplan. Just then Kaplan walked in. We gave him the bidding, and he said "Harry Fishbein." Sure enough, he was right.

One can have a lot of fun at a tournament listening to Fishbein, one of the most popular of our outstanding players, when he explains his bidding. Many players would open this hand with two diamonds, but Harry says, "No, not with the weak spade suit." When he doubled one heart and his partner passed, he knew that South had a fair hand; but when West bid two clubs, Fishbein bid three clubs. East bid five clubs, South doubled and Fishbein then bid six clubs—that should establish some sort of record. Of course his cue-bid of six clubs asked his partner to bid six diamonds unless he held four good spades, in which case he would like to have the hand played at six spades. South made the correct bid of six diamonds, and Fishbein took the spade finesse and made seven.

Army, Middy Squads Await Saturday's Clash; Two Local Boys Will Attend the Classic

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 27—(AP)—Frankenstein had nothing on Coach Earl (Red) Blaik, who at his workshop here on the banks of the Hudson has created a gridiron monster capable of smashing anything unfortunate enough to be caught in its path.

Like the scientist who constructed the mechanical man, however, Blaik is not always able to control the destructive power of his monster once it gets on a tear.

"We have no lust for overwhelming or belittling an opponent," Blaik declared between chores as he mapped his battle plans for the national championship contest with Navy at Philadelphia Saturday.

The record will show that in winning 17 consecutive games since the start of the 1944 campaign the Cadets have piled up the amazing total of 884 points compared with 68 for their opponents. But in the eight games this year resulting in a total of 380 points for Army and 33 for its opponents the first team backfield of Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard, Shorty McWilliams and Arnold Tucker has played less than half the time.

This devastating quartet has scored 241 of those 380 points and its ability to run up the score is what gives Blaik the chance to insert his reserves for seasoning and according to the record he does just that at every opportunity.

Navy today turned to its courageous line to carry the fight to the Army in the hope of an upset victory in Saturday's national championship struggle.

"Rip" Miller, Navy's line coach, said frankly that the play of the Middles up front "can make a terrific difference."

"Our line has not folded once this season. Our poorest line play was in our victory over Wisconsin and that was because the boys were too eager, letting themselves in for a few traps."

The former Notre Dame star's chief concern was over the ability of Navy's line backers to stop Army's smashing ball carriers.

"More times than not, a line is no better than its line backers and our backstops have not been too varsity so far," he said. "They are pretty light and green."

LOCAL BOYS WILL ATTEND CLASSIC

Two Warren boys will leave here Friday for Philadelphia, where they will see the Army-Navy game Saturday. They are Jack and David Hamilton, sons of Dr. and Mrs. E. Gail Hamilton, Market street. Dr. Hamilton has just been discharged from the navy.

Navy's line backers anticipate the most arduous afternoon of their football careers when they come up against Army's human tank, Doc Blanchard.

Miller is sold on the spirit of Navy's linemen.

"Their fighting qualities have been demonstrated time and again," he said. "They stopped Penn seven times inside Navy's 20. They held Notre Dame on the goal line."

Georgia Tech was clawing our eyes out down close but we stopped 'em. And we cut off Michigan just before the end of the first half when a Michigan score might have made a big difference in the game.

Tickets to the Army-Navy game are rarer than uranium, but a few ducats are available if a person wants to pay as high as $35 for a $4.80 seat behind the goalposts, the Philadelphia Record reported today.

Not many "outsiders" will attend the service classic at Municipal Stadium here Saturday.

That is, the expected 105,000 persons who will jam-pack the giant oval will be members of the Army and Navy athletic associations, high government officials, congressmen, Philadelphia city officials—and their friends.

The Record said the ticket situation shaped up this way, quoting West Point and Annapolis sources:

"No tickets have been sold except to members of the Army Athletic Association and a few to congressmen. We had to cut out the public sale of tickets because graduates returning from overseas hadn't seen a game in years oversubscribed the tickets"—West Point.

"This isn't like a Penn-Navy game. This is a game between the military Academy and the Naval Academy—and the services get tickets first"—Annapolis.

O'Connors, Penn Bottle Are Victors In Opening Y-City Basketball League Series

The first peacetime City Basketball League since 1940-1 barraged itself into the limelight last night on the newly-finished YMCA hardwood, and two Sheffield teams moved into a tie for first place honors.

In the preliminary, Sheffield's O'Connors Machine Shop outlasted the Times-Mirror quint, 22-19, and in the main attraction, The Sheffield Penn Bottle ran rampant over Sylvania, 38-23.

These early season clashes last night made a definite indication as to who would be all-powerful in this year's loop. The Penn Bottles without a doubt established themselves as a threat, but Sylvania's hopes were partly shattered. O'Connors did not show too outstanding in their win.

The first game was marked by poor ball-handling and roughness on the part of both teams. Both quintets were particularly poor at the free throw lane. O'Connors made good on four out of fourteen attempts, and the newspaper boys completed 5 out of 12. MacAvoy paced the winners with seven points, followed closely by Swanson with six. Bob Scallise, recently discharged from the navy, headed the Times with five, and Tony Thomasone, who served during the war with the U. S. Merchant Marine, followed with 4.

The second game was far more interesting, and the two teams were more evenly matched. Sabot, ex-O'Connor now playing with the Penn Bottles, whipped 8 two-pointers and a foul shot through the hoop to lead the Bottlers with 17 points. Matthew Otto, last of the basketballing Ottos, tallied 8.

Sylvania failed to make use of its available talent. Cutler, starting forward, was an all-state player at Michigan several years ago, and Grunzewicz, starting center, ranges at 6'6". Both are stationed here with the army.

Penn Bottle took an early lead in the game and never relinquished it.

Local Moose Cops Win Over Olean

The Warren Moose Inter-City bowling team No. 1 came home Sunday with a four-point victory over the Olean Moose to increase their standing in the Inter-City standings.

J. Perry turned in a 218 single game, and Joe Chimera hit a 607 total to lead the locals, and E. Jaynes added a 556 three-game count. For the losers, Whipple and Struble each recorded 180 singles, and Harvey had a 522 total.

H. S. Footballers Given Spaghetti Dinner Sunday

The Warren High School football team, and its coaching staff, was given a spaghetti dinner at the K. of C. Club Sunday evening.

The dinner was given by Frank Gerardi and James Scallise, respective fathers of Bob Gerardi veteran letterman-lineman who was knocked out of action in the Jamestown game, and Jim Scallise, season fullback. The two boys were the only lettermen who returned to the 1945 squad from the preceding year. Cooking was done by Mrs. Frank Gerardi and Mrs. James Scallise.

Sam Gerardi acted as master of ceremonies and called upon both Bob Gerardi and Jim Scallise, team representatives; Harry Hutchings, assistant coach; James Scallise, Sr.; Frank Gerardi; and Coach J. B. Leidig, principal speaker.

Principal Stadium here Saturday. That is, the expected 105,000 persons who will jam-pack the giant oval will be members of the Army and Navy athletic associations, high government officials, congressmen, Philadelphia city officials—and their friends.

The Record said the ticket situation shaped up this way, quoting West Point and Annapolis sources:

"No tickets have been sold except to members of the Army Athletic Association and a few to congressmen. We had to cut out the public sale of tickets because graduates returning from overseas hadn't seen a game in years oversubscribed the tickets"—West Point.

"This isn't like a Penn-Navy game. This is a game between the military Academy and the Naval Academy—and the services get tickets first"—Annapolis.

If Henry Wickham had not smuggled 70,000 rubber tree seed out of Brazil in 1876 and take them to England, whence plant were sent to the East Indies to thrive and develop into the world's chief rubber source, Brazil probably would be the center of rubber production today.

"Share-The-Food" Menus As Substitute For Regular Meal

These menus represent the diet for the average citizen in allied and liberated countries both during the war in Europe and now. This diet is below any standard of adequate nutrition. The children of Europe and China have been living on this and less . . . not for one day, but week after week, month after month, and year after year. It can't hurt any of us to eat so little for only one meal. They are lucky to get so much for any meal. Individuals or groups which select one of these menus as a substitute for their regular meal on November 29, or as soon after as possible, should either send the difference in cost between the adopted menu and an American meal to the C.W.C.A. where it will be used to buy canned goods, or should buy food in No. 2 sized tin cans or larger and bring those to the Y.W.C.A. by 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, December 8th where all the cans of food will be packed and sent to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to distribute to those people in Europe and China.

Chapter 16

[Sunday 11:04 a.m. to 12:25 p.m.]

AS SOON as Virginia was gone Julia sat up. Her head throbbed painfully and she was quiet until the heavy pulsing died away and not the dull ache remained. Then she got out of bed and began to dress.

She walked straight and steadily, like a woman bearing a bowl on her head.

There was no one in the salon but she heard voices in the foyer. She glanced over the room hastily. Everything seemed to be in place.

She walked quickly through the salon and dining room. Moore stood in the butler's pantry. The hands of the clock back of him were at 11:25.

"I'm going out and I'd rather not be followed if you know how I can prevent it," she said.

Moore's hair looked more bushy than usual and his features were pinched. The sacks under his eyes were heavy and darkish.

"I won't tell them," he told her and his voice showed strain.

They are after him, thought Julia. And he's afraid. He could turn them on me.

"Moore, if we find who did it, we'll be safe," she ventured.

"Them dumb cops will never find out anything. Indignation crept into his defeated tones.

"Where does Hank live?"

"Last I heard he was downtown on Morton Street but he hangs out at Mike's Bar about a block and a half from the theatre on the same side of the street. Even on Sundays."

"This is Sunday, I'd forgotten. Moore, could you find him and bring him to Jerry's apartment? I'll meet you there. He knows something and I have to find out."

The sudden interest in Moore's face made her pause.

"Do you know what it is?"

"No," he said, and Julia didn't believe him. "The cops won't waste time, though, about picking him up."

"Can we get out without being seen?"

"Yes, madam, if you can walk down ten flights of stairs to get out the servants' entrance."

"Where's Cook?"

"Out gossiping."

The inside door from the refrigerator room opened on a back corridor with an elevator and stairs used by the servants. There were two apartments on each floor. Moore opened the door a crack and Julia caught a glimpse of a blue uniformed figure sitting in a chair opposite the elevator reading a paper.

"We can't get out," she whispered.

"I'll fix it."

He went to the house phone in the kitchen and was connected with the apartment next door.

"Hello Mar'get, me darling."

His voice had the whine of a spoiled lover. "Cook's been trying to inveigle me into a date and I wish you'd tell her where to jump off."

He was silent while blistering sounds came from the receiver.

"Well, I can't help it if I'm a blasted Golden Apple. You gotta tell her yourself."

There were more crackling sounds, then a click. Moore hung up and went back to the door and opened it enough to peek through.

"Take off your shoes and carry them," he said, and she obeyed.

Furious noises emerged from the opposite door. The policeman got up, folded his paper, and went to the door. It opened as he started to knock and a stout woman met him. They could not see her face for the policeman but they heard her.

"I'll learn you —" she began. Then, "Oh, it's you, is it?"

Julia did not hear any more. She had followed Moore to the open stairway when the guard first turned his back and the guard slipped silently down the first flight. Julia put on her pumps and saw that Moore had taken his shoes out of his pocket. She noted how unobtrusively he did everything.

When they reached the ground floor they separated with an agreement to meet at Jerry's.

Moore went out first and Julia waited. When she decided she had allowed Moore enough time she walked boldly to the street and turned toward Fifth Avenue.

There she hailed a cab and directed the driver to Jerry's apartment on 18th Street.

She leaned back in the cab and tried to rest but there were so many things coursing through her mind. First she must find out what it was Hank knew that Robey had been so desperately afraid he would tell. That was the first thing that had come to mind when the Inspector said he must have facts.

Also she wanted to know what Jerry meant by his reference to Robey's double. Could Robey have had an understudy who could pass for him off the stage? It sounded like an old melodrama but everything that happened seemed unreal and theatrical.

Suddenly she sat up in the cab. The woman in the red hat! She had forgotten her. What had she given Robey? That might be the clue to the whole mystery. But there was no way she could get in touch with her. She turned over several ideas and then hit upon one that seemed easiest.

Directing the cabbie to drive to Sixth Avenue, she told him to stop at the first place where classified ads could be taken.

When he found a stationery store, Julia got out and told him to wait. She went in and had in addition: bread and sugar, chocolate, or jam.

Supper: Similar to dinner but less food.

Psychology tests made at Purdue show that wearing spectacles makes a person look more honest and intelligent.

As she turned to leave she heard a tinkling sound. One of the clerks had taken an old light bulb from the socket and laid it on a glass case. She stood motionless for an instant, then went on to the cab.

She knew now where Robey had hidden the paper he got from the woman in the red hat.

HURLEY RESIGNS WITH DENUNCIATION OF POLICY IN ASIA

ARMY BOARD'S INFERENCES ARE ASSAILED

Former Secretary of State Denounces Language of Interpretations Made By Probers

TELLS OF CONFERENCE

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Cordell Hull today branded as "an infamous charge" the inference in an army inquiry board's report that the note he handed Japanese "peace" ambassador Nov. 25, 1941 touched the button that started the Pacific war.

The former secretary of state, testifying before a senate-house committee inquiring into the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, assailed in vigorous language the interpretations made by the army board.

"I sat under that infamous charge for months when every reasonable minded person knew that the Japanese were attempting at that time to get complete control of the Pacific," Hull declared.

"Somebody who knows little about what was going on and who cares less, says 'why didn't the United States make concessions and keep us out of war?'" he continued.

"Any reasonable persons knows that the Japanese were bent on attack and knows that we could not have stopped them unless we had laid down like cowards."

Hull earlier testified he had on an unverified report of the attack on Pearl Harbor when he conferred with the Japanese peace envoys at 1 p. m. Dec. 7, 1941.

Hull told the senate-house committee investigating the attack that the White House had called him about noon of that day with the report that the Japanese had struck, but his informant was unable to confirm it definitely.

The question arose, Hull said, whether he should receive the Japanese at all or whether he should leave open the one chance in 10 that the reported attack had not taken place.

Hull said he went into the meeting to find that the Japanese delegates were talking "peace, peace, peace."

Because of the report he had received, Hull said he "felt like taking liberties in talking with them about their government that would have been a little undiplomatic in ordinary times."

Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.) asked Hull for his estimate of Saburo Kurosu and Kichisaburo Nomura, the Japanese envoys.

The former secretary said it was his belief that both knew dud.

Petitions of Gas Companies Heard

Port Allegany, Nov. 27—(AP)—The Federal Power Commission announced today that a decision will be given later on application for extension of the service of the Hope Natural Gas Co., and the New York State Natural Gas Corp., in northwestern Pennsylvania and western New York.

The commission yesterday took transcripts from the hearings in which Hope and New York State Natural were given permission to sell gas wholesale in the areas.

The commission also heard testimony on an application of Dempseyville Gas Co. to extend service to Clarion, Venango and Forest counties, all in Pennsylvania. The company wants to build nine miles of 4-inch line at a cost of $51,117 to connect with a New York State Natural line in Clarion county.

By CHARLES B. HOLSTEIN

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—A special plea for funds for an early start of proposed flood control projects in Elk county, Pa., was made before a house appropriations subcommittee by Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.).

Testimony made public by the committee yesterday, Gavin recounted details of a disastrous flood in that area in 1942, presented pictures of the devastation at that time in Johnsonburg and told of a mother who crouched atop a boxcar all night with a baby in her arms while flood waters swirled about her.

Gavin asked for $750,000 to $1,000,000 to get the Elk county program under way.

It would include he said a multiple purpose dam on the east branch of the Clarion river—key to the whole program—with additional work on stream widening, channeling, dredging and diking at Johnsonburg, Ridgway and St. Marys.

Gavin said the program had been authorized in the 1944 flood control act but was not included in war department requests for

Philadelphia Mint Not Large Enough

Philadelphia, Nov. 27—(AP)—Uncle Sam's mint in Philadelphia is not big enough, says Leland Howard, assistant U. S. mint director—"it cannot do the job."

Howard said plans will be submitted to congress, with land and building costs for the erection of a new Philadelphia mint which will be twice the size of the present largest U. S. mint in Denver, Colo.

Killings Are Protested By Jewish Labor

Jerusalem, Nov. 27—(AP)—Unofficial reports placed the toll in yesterday's disturbances in the Jewish area of Palestine at nine Jews killed and at least 75 wounded, and the Jewish National Council called a half-hour work stoppage today as a "token of mourning" for the dead.

The General Federation of Jewish Labor cabled a strongly worded protest to the British labor party and British and United States labor organizations.

Tension subsided gradually as British troops withdrew from the trouble zone north of Tel Aviv. The British had thrown a cordon around six Jewish villages yesterday, and, with mortars and machineguns and supported by tanks, had entered the villages in search of persons responsible for attacks on coast guard stations. The cordon was lifted last night.

The sudden outbreak of demonstrations after the villages were blocked off for the search was laid to retaliation against the British seizure recently of a Greek ship which was carrying illegal immigrants.

The Jewish National Council called upon all shops and factories to close in today's token stoppage, and for all traffic to halt in the entire Jewish sector of Palestine. The time of the stoppage was not publicly announced.

The closings, the council said, would be "in respect for those who died for the right of Jews to bring their brethren to Palestine and to defend their lives."

Newsprint Must Be Reduced Further

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Newsprint inventories at the end of the year must be reduced further from previous permissive ceilings, the Civilian Production Administration said today.

CPA held that newspaper publishers may have not more than 25 days' supply of print paper on hand and in transit as of December 31 if they are located in central or northeastern states. Those in western and southern states will be limited to 45 days' supply.

Previous permissive inventories were 30 days and 50 days, respectively. CPA said the action was taken to fulfill agreement with the Canadian Newsprint Administration to eliminate accumulated newsprint over-orders from the United States by January 1, 1946. Over-orders during the fourth quarter will amount to approximately 20,000 tons, CPA said.

HUNTING FATALITY

Renovo, Nov. 27—(AP)—George Thomas Fye, 73, of Northbend, was killed by a stray bullet while working on a highway drainage project near here yesterday. State police said he was apparently struck by a bullet fired by one of numerous bear hunters in Clinton county.

The commission also heard testimony on an application of Dempseyville Gas Co. to extend service to Clarion, Venango and Forest counties, all in Pennsylvania. The company wants to build nine miles of 4-inch line at a cost of $51,117 to connect with a New York State Natural line in Clarion county.

RESCRIPT IS READ TO JAP IMPERIAL DIET

Election Reform Number One Function of Current Session Insuring Revision of Laws

COLORFUL CEREMONY

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Nov. 27—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito, in a colorful reading of an imperial rescript, today made election reform the number one function of the current diet and insured some revision of current laws.

Standing before the imperial throne in the ornate house of peers, the emperor read the brief rescript in formal, heavy tones while members of both houses bowed deeply. The Japanese ruler was flanked on the right by princes of the blood and imperial household officials and on the left by Premier Kijuro Shidehara's cabinet.

Specific mention of election reform in the rescript insured action thereupon and made this the principal diet issue. Simultaneously the rescript statement limited to the house of representatives such reform, indicating there probably will be no change in the current appointive status of the house of peers despite considerable newspaper agitation.

The rescript also broadly solicited harmony in dealing with other matters, which include elimination of repressive laws and action on such unprecedented government legislation as expropriation of large landed estates and establishment of labor union law.

The emperor wore his new official non-military uniform. Solemn-faced, he entered the hushed chamber and walked stiffly to a position facing the throne. A dais above the rostrum utilized by the chamber president and peers. His formal impressive entry was at 10:59 a. m., after the other participants assembled and stood awaiting him for 10 minutes.

The principal business of both chambers for the balance of the day was formulation of an official answer to the rescript.

Everyone was held within the building during the arrival and departure of the imperial cortege and all windows above the first floor were curtained to prevent any subject from gazing downward upon him.

This important session, opening amid continuous rain and beneath dark skies followed closely the long routine traditional at the reading of the rescript. But slowly it will make a break with other traditions as, beginning tomorrow, it plunges into the momentous problems.

Death Toll In Bus Accident Stands at 15

Chelan, Wash., Nov. 27—(AP)—Chelan today was a city of sorrow, its grim faces above the first floor windows looking down at an icy ore which had swallowed a community of children when an inbound school bus left the road.

Fifteen youngsters and its driver were carried to death in the deep waters. The town hall stood ready for duty today as a morgue.

Six persons, five children and a woman passenger, escaped. Mrs. Ted Brown, the passenger, sat in the driver's seat, 26, stood up and fought the wheel when the bus struck a rock in the snow-swept road and swerved over a 20-foot bank into the lake.

The bus sank slowly, the air trapped inside delaying its descent. The survivors escaped through windows broken either in the plunge down the bank or by the frantic children. Margaret (Peggy) Rice, 16; Bob Watson, 7; Donnie Mack, 13; Ethel Keck, 10; Mary Stark, 17, and Mrs. Brown got to shore.

Divers who rushed from Grand Coulee Dam and Seattle resumed their search for the sunken bus as its grim load today after two men, Brothers Colin and D. S. O'Donnell, went down 160 feet without locating the vehicle. At 130 feet they found one body, that of 16-year-old Henry Davis.

HEARING IS HELD ON SHAWMUT CO. CASE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 27—(AP)—Accompanied by a half dozen miners, Dr. Elizabeth Hayes, resigned physician for the Shawmut Mining Company at Force, today attended a hearing into the receivership of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railroad Co., before Federal Judge Guy K. Bard.

The Shawmut Company is a subsidiary of the railroad.

Dr. Hayes resigned last July 16 because of what she described as "intolerable conditions" in Force. The company's 450 miners went on strike claiming they wouldn't work without a doctor.

Secret Nazi Activities To Violate Treaty Are Disclosed

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Nuernberg, Nov. 27—(AP)—Secret German activity to violate the Versailles peace treaty by the undercover construction of a navy and air force was disclosed today by American prosecutors at the war crimes trial of 20 Nazi leaders.

Documents were laid before the four-power tribunal as evidence that, from his earliest days of power, Hitler falsified public reports of battle ship tonnage, built submarines and trained U-boat crews in isolated hideouts in Spain, Finland and Holland and rebuilt the German air force under the guise of a commercial aviation program.

Yanks Planes Reported On Way to China

By the Associated Press

Chungking, Nov. 27—(AP)—Chinese Nationalists today heard that some 700 American planes are being flown into China, presumably for their use, as central government troops drove within 90 miles of Mukden, vital rail center in the battle for Manchuria.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Cushing wrote from Shanghai that virtually every flyable American plane in India and Burma was being flown into China, in an operation which already has cost several American lives. There were 11 crashes last Thursday when 22 P-51s flying from Kuming to the Shanghai area encountered a weather front.

Cushing was told the flight was ordered by the war department and that the 10th Air Force was bringing transports and the 14th Air Force fighters. Ranking officers told Cushing the aircraft undoubtedly will be given to the Chinese Nationalists.

U. S. Air Force officials said it is vital that the United States protect Allied gains in China. Cushing wrote, but the men flying the aircraft "are debating angrily whether they ought to be risking their lives three months after the end of the war."

Chungking newspapers said Nationalist forces advanced 40 miles along the Peiping-Mukden railroad to Kowpangtze, 90 miles from Mukden. There was no report of opposition.

Wrong Mother Told Her Son Had Died

Pennhurst, Nov. 27—(AP)—Confusion over the identity of two boys at the Pennhurst State School led a doctor at the institution to notify the wrong mother that her son had died and to send the body to the wrong town, it was reported today.

The body of Louis Walters, who died here Sunday of epileptic fever, was sent to Luzerne, yesterday after Mrs. Elizabeth Walters of that town had been notified her son was dead.

Officials of the school said they later discovered that the Luzerne woman's boy, also named Louis Walters, was still living and that the dead boy's foster mother was from Bethlehem.

The body will remain in Luzerne, said Dr. James F. Dean, school superintendent, until the foster mother, Mrs. Margaret Walters, is contacted or until Northampton county (where Bethlehem is located) authorities arrange burial.

ROBBED G. IS MAIL

Philadelphia, Nov. 27—(AP)—Leroy Haynes, former heavy-weight boxer, was sentenced to five months in federal prison on a charge of robbing the mails. The 35-year-old Philadelphia was convicted of opening 50,000 pieces of Christmas mail being sent to soldiers overseas. Haynes denied taking part in the thefts with Robert Morton, 34, who received a 15-month prison sentence.

Effort to Restore in the River And Harbor Bill 128 Million Draws "Pork Barrel" Charges

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Republican contentions of "pork barrel" today greeted a Democrat-backed drive in the house to add $128,475,000 in river and harbor-flood control funds to a $1,131,452,312 appropriation bill.

"It's worse than pork barrel," said Rep. John Taber of New York, ranking Republican member of the house appropriations committee which yesterday approved the deficiency supply bill without the river and harbor money.

Taber directed his remarks at a move launched by some Democratic committeemen to restore to the measure the $128,475,000 knocked out by a close committee vote.

A showdown is unlikely before tomorrow or Thursday, because today's house meeting has been set aside for a general discussion of the bill and its scores of separate items.

"On some of these river and harbor and flood control projects," Taber told a reporter, "even the sponsors and the army engineers can't agree. They are millions of dollars apart on the potential value of the projects."

Taber said he not only would oppose the addition of any new funds but would move to strike from the bill some money already in it.

The appropriations committee already has dopped $576,242,136 from Budget estimates which formed the basis for the bill.

There may be a well-backed drive to restore at least part of the $128,475,000 estimate for construction of hospital and other facilities for veterans. In rejecting this allotment, the committee said it believed its regular subcommittee handling veterans' administration funds should study the program before money is voted.

The committee left the door open for later navigation and flood control appropriations with the explanation that some of the projects "should have further investigation."

All had the approval of the army engineers, eager to put water programs back on a peacetime scale.

(Note: Included in the plan of reclamation and army engineers for spending part of the money is listed $277,600 for the Tionesta Reservoir.)

Erie Youth Admits 53 House - Breaks

Erie, Nov. 27—(AP)—Patrolman Edward J. Allen reported today a 14-year-old boy, shot as he was fleeing from a policeman, made a statement that he participated in 53 house-breaks in Erie.

The officer said the youth claimed to be accompanied on the trips by a 25-year-old uncle on 42 occasions.

No charges have been filed against either.

Officer Allen asserted a list of houses entered was being compiled by him and the boy, who is recovering in Hamot Hospital from two slight bullet wounds. He quoted the youth as saying he sometimes wore a sailor suit on the trips, and that screaming women several times frightened him and his uncle from homes.

FAYETTE JURY HEARS CAUSER MURDER CASE

Uniontown, Nov. 27—(AP)—District Attorney H. Vance Cotton said today that if Frederick Causer, 19-year-old ex-sailor, is indicted for murder by the grand jury now in session, he will go to trial next Monday before President Judge W. Russell Carr.

The commonwealth charges Hauser killed 17-year-old Anne Elizabeth Dreyer, the Fayette City "Sunshine Girl" last Sept. 1 along a lonely road between Connellsville and Route 51.

Defense Attorney Paul K. McCormick said a plea of not guilty would be entered if an indictment is returned.

Met Season Opening Proves Dazzling Display of Jewels

By JEAN SMALL

New York, Nov. 27—(AP)—As Mrs. Truman and Mary Margaret smiled and applauded, the Metropolitan Opera Company opened its 61st season last night—with the most dazzling display of diamonds and ermine in years.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt wore her traditional head-band, Mrs. George Washington Kavanaugh wore diamond bracelets up to her elbow, John Jacob Astor wore a white tie and an opera hat—and New York society knew that once again, all was right with the world.

The annual opening night spectacle of pelts and sparklers was dimmed during the war years, but last night the mighty flung aside wartime modesty and welcomed peace with a lavishness worthy of Diamond Jim Brady and Lillian Russell.

Gone were the short evening dresses or unabashed street clothes of 1941-44. In their place were resplendent opera hats, white ties, gold-headed canes, coats of chinchilla, sable, ermine, and clusters of diamonds, rubies, emeralds. A few of the masculine old guard even wore opera caps.

The president's wife and daughter, Mrs. Margaret, were among the arch-conservatives of the glittering crowd.

Neither wore furs—but simple, tailored blue cloth coats which covered simple, distinguished evening dresses and jewelry consisting only of strands of pearls.

Moreover, the first lady and first daughter arrived—early. (The queen of New York's 400, Mrs. Vanderbilt, arrived at her customary hour—9 o'clock. The opera began at 8.)

Veteran opera-goers said it was the first time a first lady had attended an opening at the Met.

Ambassador to China Declares U. S. Being Sucked Into Power Bloc on Side of Imperialism

DIPLOMATS ASSAILED

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley resigned as ambassador to China today, bitterly assailed American policy in Asia, and declared that a third World War was "in the making."

The white-haired soldier-diplomat charged that the United States was using its power and reputation "to undermine democracy and bolster imperialism and communism" in the Far East.

"In diplomacy today, we are permitting ourselves to be sucked into a power bloc on the side of colonial imperialism against communist imperialism," he asserted. "I am opposed to both. I still favor democracy and free enterprise."

Hurley announced his resignation in a 150-word statement containing frequent charges that career diplomats and state department officials were blocking attainment of expressed U. S. war aims.

Hurley said the United States "began the war with the principles of the Atlantic charter and democracy as our goal." He added: "We finished the war in the Far East furnishing lend-lease supplies and using all our reputation to undermine democracy and bolster imperialism and communism."

"The retiring ambassador to Chungking said he agreed entirely with the outline of American foreign policy which President Truman made in his Navy Day address, but stated that 'professional diplomats in the lower echelons were frustrating attainment of announced policy aims.'"

Hurley said that when he was assigned to China he was directed by President Roosevelt to prevent collapse of the Chiang Kai-shek government and keep the Chinese army in the war.

"From both the strategic and diplomatic viewpoint the foregoing constituted our chief objective," he said, "the next in importance was the directive to harmonize the relations between the Chinese and American military establishments and between the American embassy in Chungking and the Chinese government."

"Both of these objectives were accomplished."

Hurley said, however, that it was "my belief that the American government in China did not have the support of all the career men in the state department."

"The professional foreign service men sided with the Chinese Communists party and the imperialist bloc of nations whose policy it was to keep China divided."

"Gloomy" Review Of World Events

Washington, Nov. 27—(AP)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) told the senate today this nation was backing both Russia and England in a mad rush into another world war that might end civilization.

"The only aggressors today are our beloved and noble peace-loving Allies," the veteran western senator said in a prepared 27-page speech opposing participation in the present United Nations Organization.

"Making an admittedly 'gloomy' review of recent world events, the veteran western senator sharply criticized results of the war to date, the international policies of the United States leaders, and the United Nations organization."

"I will not believe that Russia wants war," the senator said. "We must quit appeasing Russia and let her know once and for all we do not fight this war to let her enslave the people of Europe. She agreed to our high principles in her hour of distress. She must abide by them now."

Wheeler, leader in the prewar isolationist group in this country, suggested that the United States "have the courage to call a real peace conference and let us do it with or without Russia's participation."

SUPREME COURT HEARS COMMUTATION PLEAS

Philadelphia, Nov. 27—(AP)—The Pennsylvania supreme court took under advisement a plea by two Williamsport men for commutation of their death sentence to life imprisonment.

The men—Robert W. Pepperman, 26, and John D. West, 28—pleaded guilty to killing Joseph B. Campbell, 72, Erie, after robbing him and were sentenced to be electrocuted. Their attorney said evidence showed the men had no intention of murdering Campbell when they planned robbery.

Cold-Blooded Duplicity Is Shown in Pearl Harbor Probe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

One of the outstanding characteristics of the Japanese and German war lords, as is being brought out in the Pearl Harbor investigation and through the discovery of secret Nazi records, is their cold-blooded duplicity.

There was (and is) no honesty among them. We see that in the cautions which Hitler, Goering and other Nazi leaders used in annexing little Austria, while they kept the rest of Europe quiet with double-talk. We see it in the Japanese treachery in striking at Pearl Harbor behind the shield of peace negotiations at Washington.

Every day emphasizes the necessity of removing these war-worshippers from society. It's gratifying therefore to see the Nuernberg trials of top Nazis opening today before the international war crimes tribunal. It's equally satisfactory (and forgive me if I'm wrong) to learn that Baron General Honjo, reputed head of the militarists who staged the conquest of Manchuria, has committed hara-kiri rather than face trial as a war criminal along with numerous other militarists whom General MacArthur has ordered imprisoned pending their appearance before the Allied court of justice.

Far be it from us to gloat over Honjo's suicide. As a matter of fact it must be admitted that it takes a dose of a lot of courage to rip your body open with a sword and then cut your throat.

State Agricultural Department Marks Its Fiftieth Anniversary

Harrisburg—The Pennsylvania State Department of Agriculture this year is observing the 50th anniversary of its establishment in 1895.

In summing up agricultural activities within the State for the past half-century, Secretary Miles Horst disclosed that farmers and food processors have created an enviable record. In more than a dozen fields Pennsylvania leads all other states in the United States in farm products and processed foods.

Pennsylvania farmers last year produced in such quantities as to place the Commonwealth:

- First in buckwheat, 2,440,000 bushels;
- First in cigar leaf tobacco, 52,582,000 pounds;
- First in the value of crops grown under glass, $9,074,212 (1939 figures latest available);
- First in mushrooms, 20,000,000 pounds estimated;
- First in turkeys (east of the Mississippi River), 1,670,000;
- First in producer-retail milk direct from farmer to consumer, 233,000,000 quarts worth $33,319,000.

First in the amount of apples State graded for processing, 135,000,000 pounds;

First in nursery-grown Christmas trees;

First in production of Spring and Fall spinach, 1,237,000 bushels worth $1,273,000;

First in number of baby chick hatcheries, 636.

First county in the United States for value of all farm crops (non-irrigated), Lancaster County; and

First county in the United States in value of farm crops used by farm households, Lancaster County.

Food Processing "Firsts"

In addition to being the first state to establish a livestock sanitary service, Pennsylvania was first to pass meat inspection laws for the protection of consumers. In food processing the State ranks:

- First in the production of ice cream, 197,876,000 quarts in 1944;
- First in production of Philadelphia Cream Cheese;
- First in the number of carbonated beverage and still drink plants, 999 in 1944.

Pennsylvania also stands fourth in the Nation in the value of fruits and vegetables handled in its rapidly increasing food processing plants which are reported to include the largest apple processing plant in the world, in Adams County; the largest grape juice plant in the world, in Erie County; the largest package ice cream plant in the world in Dauphin County.

Pennsylvania also has the largest State Farm shop building in the world under one roof in Harrisburg.

Fresno Joe Has Points But Seems To Be In Wrong Army

By HAL BOYLE
Fusan, Korea (AP)—California-born Bob Fujikawa has been in service long enough to win the points required for a ticket home but there isn't any immediate likelihood he will be able to cash in on them.

"I got my points in the wrong army," explained the former Fresno truck gardener, who is a private in the Japanese armed forces.

Fujikawa is known as "Fresno Joe" to troops of the American 40th infantry division who took him on as an interpreter as soon as they heard his state-side slang. He helps them—still wearing his Japanese army uniform—in the task of sending hundreds of thousands of Nipponese soldiers and civilians, uprooted from Korea, back to their homeland. This post is the chief funnel for the homeward trek.

"We decided to put Joe to work for us," said his boss, Col. R. G. Stanton, 4907 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D. C., "after we asked if he could speak English and he replied 'I getcha'."

"Fresno Joe" is something of a mascot in the 160th infantry regiment now, but his future is a twilight matter, with Fujikawa himself completely uncertain what will happen to him, although he knows what he wants.

"I want to go home," he said simply. Which puts him in exactly the same mental frame as several million other young American-born soldiers who served under their own flag. His status, however, remains to be cleared.

This is his own story of how he came to be eating rice in khaki under the banner of the rising sun:

"I came to Japan in 1940 to visit my uncle. It was the first time I had ever been there. The war broke out and—well, here I am."

According to "Fresno Joe" the emperor didn't consult his personal wishes in the matter at all, and Japanese military authorities overlooked entirely the little item that he was an American citizen. They just handed him a rifle and pushed him into the middle of their greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere.

"Joe" never was compelled to use his rifle against his fellow-citizens from California, and seemingly was something of a "bad sack" in the Japanese army. He said Nipponese intelligence of-icers never tried to pump him on his knowledge of the American west coast.

"I knew only comparatively few words of Japanese when I came over here," he said, "and I guess they thought I was awful dumb. They couldn't understand me well when I spoke Japanese."

"They shipped him to Manchuria in a detachment in which 'Joe' had at least one distinction—he was the only man there with a diploma from the 1925 class at Fresno high school.

Fujikawa never came to blows with the Soviet government.

"I was along the Manchurian border for two years before I was transferred to Korea, but the only time I ever fired my rifle was in target practice," he said.

"Once I saw some Russian troops through binoculars. They were across the river that was our border."

"I didn't get along very well in the Japanese army. I couldn't fit into the Japanese way of living. I was unhappy."

"Fresno Joe" looks quite happy now. He wears his little cap perched far back on his head and his off-size uniform looks like a practical joke played on him by some Japanese supply sergeant; but American officers rate him highly as a soldier-interpreter. He has been a great aid in the smooth loading of Japanese "willows on evacuation ships."

"I don't know what we would do without Joe," said Lt. Roy Linceford, Keytesville, Mo.

Fujikawa doesn't know what has happened to the uncle he came to visit five years ago. He lived in Hiroshima, first battlefield laboratory of the atomic bomb.

"Joe" hopes that in due time he will be sent back to Fresno to rejoin his mother, brother and sisters—if they are still there. Asked what feature of American life he missed most during his years in the Japanese army, "Fresno Joe" said soberly and without hesitation: "Freedom."

STYLE—SPEED—SAFETY!

Since Saturday's Victory Loan and Christmas parade when a number of them were presented to inspection of the public for the first time everyone is talking about the new cars.

Considering the condition of most family jalopies the new car becomes one of the major post war anticipations. The neighbor here and there who by some magic has managed to pry one loose from a harassed dealer is the envy of the community.

But the advent of the new automobile may bring a disappointing detail to light. Designers in many cases seem to have paid less attention to road worthiness and more to "modernizing." Hoods and fenders often are so built, seats so low and bodies so hugged to the ground, as to make it impossible for the driver to see a row of stones outlining a driveway. Visibility, certainly the basic safety requirement, has been sacrificed for the sleek new look and the streamlining necessary for speed.

With more and more cars about to be turned out on the roads in these new odd styles, drivers must dedicate themselves with increased energy to road responsibility.

TIME TO PRACTICE PEACEMAKING

Russia maintains, and the United States and Great Britain seem to agree, that world peace depends upon the Big Three. When the United Nations Organization is finally established and working, the Big Three's veto power will make their united effort and approval necessary before any positive action can be taken in time of crisis.

The United Nations Organization is not yet in operation, but crises are already at hand. And it might be helpful if the heads of the Big Three powers should now start practicing the use of the strength and the good offices upon which tranquility must depend.

This country is threatened with an embarrassing and perhaps serious involvement in China. The same can be said of Britain in Java, and perhaps of Russia in Iran. The fact that the fighting is rather localized in all three countries is all the more reason for quick efforts toward settlement of the troubles. For no one can say that serious international consequences are not possible, particularly in China.

The separate actions of the Big Three have been none too adroit in any of these cases. Since the guardianship of world peace has been thrust upon them, it seems time that the Big Three got together and made some effort to appear more convincingly in character.

CHRISTMAS TOYS

There is rejoicing, and also fear, in the hearts of parents as they look forward to Christmas. The fear, however, may be mostly on mother's side. For metal toys are back again, after four years' absence, and well she knows the depreciation they may cause in banging furniture and woodwork. They are expected to sell, however, for only about one-third as much as wooden toys, for similar articles, and that is some comfort in quarters where Santa Claus has to count costs.

The Friday evening shopping hours adopted by retail merchants in Warren some time ago continue to prove quite popular, not only with storekeepers and their employees but the shoppers as well, and there is no intention of discontinuing the policy. Through misinterpretation of an item in this paper last week some persons seemed to have the impression that the old schedule of keeping open Saturday evenings would be resumed after Christmas. That is not so, since the merchants have found that the Friday night opening is more popular than had been anticipated.

"Although the fighting on world battlefronts has ended, the long struggle to conquer the enemy Tuberculosis must go on until the atomic bomb of good health makes its final stroke," was the declaration made by Colonel Henry W. Shoemaker at Harrisburg, in announcing his acceptance of the chairmanship of the Christmas Seal Sale in Pennsylvania as the 39th annual seal campaign opened.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

by Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Even before the joint Congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee hearings got under way, it was apparent that a lot of it would take on the complexion of a political dog-fight.

Despite the fact that within the committee itself, and among many interested members of Congress, there is a sincere desire to get to the bottom of Pearl Harbor responsibilities, if any, the political angles keep popping up.

IT'S ONLY a cloakroom secret—which is no secret at all on Capitol Hill that the Republicans would be happy to see the whole responsibility for our faults on the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, laid on the doorstep of President Roosevelt and his administration of that date. The Democrats would be happier if it could be placed somewhere else.

That doesn't mean that the fundamental objective of the committee isn't to get to the true bottom of things. One proof of this is that a professional-looking gentleman who has ridden the political trolley both ways was named as committee counsel.

If you really want to know what goes on in the joint Congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, keep your eye on William DeWitt Mitchell. If his interest in politics supersedes his interest in judicial processes, it will be the first time. And if he had a political axe to grind, he could have found a dozen better stones than the committee counselship he accepted.

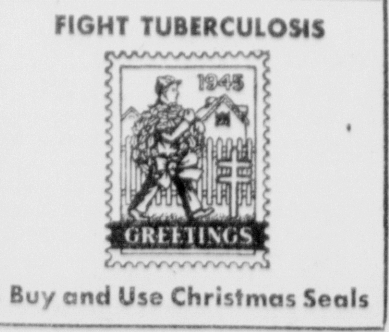

WHEN President Hoover appointed Mitchell, attorney general, it caused a political stir. Although Mitchell had served with quiet distinction as solicitor general under President Coolidge, he still was listed and considered a Democrat. Throughout the controversial comments, Mitchell said nothing, keeping his nose to the Department of Justice grindstone.

That's the way it is today. The Pearl Harbor political football was kicked over his head several times during the hearings started. The 71-year-old committee counsel, and he certainly didn't look his age, apparently didn't even know the game was being played.

Asked by newsmen what he was up to, he said he was just trying to get the presentation of testimony in order so that the evidence would be chronological and therefore understandable.

ALTHOUGH his father was a Minnesota supreme court judge for 20 years, young William was more interested in science than law. He spent a good deal of time soldiering, too, in the Spanish-American fracas and World War I, from which he emerged a colonel.

Few of the nation's No. 1 legal lights are better equipped to guide the destinies of a "non-partisan" investigation of a military disaster than William D. Mitchell.

Editor
Warren Times-Mirror
Warren, Penna.

Dear Sir:

In the recent articles the past few days concerning the proposed athletic field I notice that as yet, no definite name has been attached to the project. It has either been called the Athletic Park or Memorial Field. In this connection, I have a proposal to make, namely, let this field be known as the Campbell Memorial Field in honor of Eugene Campbell, better known to most people as "Stretch."

In proposing "Stretch's" name I don't wish to cast deference on anyone else who has also given his life for his country from the town or county, but it seems to be that "Stretch" as much as anyone else symbolized fair play and good sportsmanship while he was active both as an athlete and as a fine young man.

Sir, this proposed field is far too important to Warren county as a whole not to have a definite name and purpose. We know what its purpose will be; let's have a name for it also.

Sincerely yours,

An Interested Citizen.

Editor of The Times-Mirror:
I have been reading about the Memorial Park for ex-soldiers for the past few weeks, but never a word about where these boys are going to have living quarters.

I think if we would build some home or units for the boys we would be doing a greater act of kindness and show the boys we really do appreciate what they have done for us.

I am in the apartment business and know what I am talking about. Had ad in for apartment the other night and got some 60 calls, mostly service men and their wives.

Now I leave this up to Warren citizens, which is the most necessary at this time.

A Citizen.

Thanksgiving Day Service At Youngsville

Youngsville, Nov. 26.—A union Thanksgiving worship service was held Wednesday evening in the Methodist church, with a very good attendance. The service opened with a piano prelude "Netherland Melody" Lorenz played by Miss Robert Lodge who acted as pianist during the evening.

Rev. Earl Carlson, pastor of the Saron Lutheran church gave the opening prayer and led in the responsive readings.

"Accept Our Thanks" by Sibelius was sung as a special number by the Methodist choir directed by Elton Barton.

Rev. E. W. Chitester read the 11th Psalm and gave the offertory announcement. The offering was for church union activities. "The Pilgrim Chorus" from Tannhaeuser by Wagner was the offertory solo.

Rev. J. L. Strong, pastor of the United Brethren church brought the evening Thanksgiving sermon using as his text selections from Mariah's song of praise after the Israelitic victory. He spoke of the many things for which America should give thanks, of the great opportunities of world wide service and of the national wrongs in this land which should be put down. He emphasized the work of the Christian church of America and of its influence in making not only America, but the world better.

A double quartette from the Methodist choir sang "To the Lord of Glory" by Von Suppe. Rev. Earl Carlson pronounced the benediction and the piano postlude was "Thanks be to Thee" by Handel.

THANKSGIVING GATHERINGS

In many homes Thanksgiving was remembered by family gatherings. Returned service men added in many homes to the spirit of Thanksgiving. The Hutley twin brothers were home from the navy having been discharged honorably. Both Richard and Robert Hutley, twin brothers, have been together during their entire navy service. The greater part of the time they were located in Bermuda.

We are glad to report that Herbert Maasz is now back and spent Thanksgiving with his family. Mrs. Nellie Anderson and Mrs. Marie Brown and children spent

Many people from Youngsville attended the Victory Loan Parade in Warren Saturday afternoon. The local school band with music supervisor Harvey Horn were a part of the 3rd division. The parade showed effort by many people to make it such a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Vogan of Gowan, N. Y., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laurel Whitmore. Thanksgiving guests at the Whitmore home were S. E. Smedley, Mrs. Bernice Smedley and A. J. Smedley.

Slippery road was the cause of damage to the car of Kenneth Wood which skidded Saturday on an especially slippery bit of road near Irvine. No other car was involved in the accident.

Election of officers is scheduled in the Grange meeting of tomorrow Tuesday.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CORYDON

Corydon, Nov. 26—A report is current to the effect the Corydon post office building, an old landmark, owned by Dr. C. C. Platt, of Kinzua, is sold to Paul R. Duntley, well known local man. From time to time the structure has housed numerous enterprises... of dim recollection is a general store conducted by the late Charles Hamilton Clawson, over a period of years, from there Mr. Clawson moved his store to the Odd Fellows' building where he was in business almost up to the time of his passing. At one time too, it was an extremely well known rendezvous for Macabee organization gatherings... an order we understand both prominent and active locally and housed on the second floor of the building for many years. Not until spring is the structure expected to be dismantled.

Under supervision of Mrs. Margaret Coates, teacher, a fire program appropriate to the holiday season was presented by pupils last Wednesday afternoon previous to the weekend closing for Thanksgiving festivities. A number of parents attended the appreciative affair.

Corydon folk are welcoming Mr. and Mrs. George Black, back to the community following their residence in Kilbuck for a number of years. They have taken up residence with Mrs. Black's brother Victor Erickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Williams, Mrs. Marion Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Williams and daughter, visitors here with relatives and friends have left for a short stay in Slippery Rock, enroute to the southland.

Francis Rogers, is making fine improvement on his home here... replacing it with all new windows of attractive design as well as giving it a new coat of shingles.

Arthur Fair has returned from Muncy, Indiana, where he spent the past week with his brother, Dr. H. D. Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wade and children, Niagara Falls, have been visitors of Mrs. Marie Hatch, Akeley, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Kinney, all spent the holiday with the Burr Gavins in Warren.

Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Tome, included Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Learn, Jamestown, and O. O. Tome, of Willow Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pascarella, entertained the following Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whitney and family, Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Crooks, has returned from Jamestown, where they spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Reading.

Lance Gardner, stationed in Tucson, Arizona, has received honorable discharge from the United States service and with his family has been visiting at the home of his mother Mrs. William Carnahan.

Mrs. A. R. Fair, accompanied by Jacob Schuler were in Akeley Thursday, spending the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradley. They were joined by the W. W. Muir's, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hatch of Warren.

Miss Beverly Prue, spent the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Prue.

Those spending the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith included Miss Leatrice Smith, Clarion, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith, of Sugar Run.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Elott have returned from Akron, Ohio, where they visited the George Porter family and met Miss Mary Lou Platt, arriving from Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Players' Cast And Committees Busy With Plans

Players are assured of an evening of excellent entertainment in the forthcoming production, "Nine Girls", to be presented by the Warren Players in the Women's Club auditorium on December 6 and 7.

The play selected is a mystery drama providing plenty of spine-chilling suspense from beginning to end. Of special interest is a cast which joins talented new comedians and veteran players whose performances, although stellar in character, have been all too infrequent.

Betty Rice, whose perpetual habit of producing hit shows has made local stage history, has selected her cast with a view to providing the greatest possible variety in types of characters. She has weighed expertly all aspects of the individual personalities in her cast to evoke as much contrast as possible. Audiences may judge on December 6 and 7 her skill and success in guiding her players into exactly the convincing level of each portrayal. In this, as in all of the plays, planning, she has been ably assisted by Fern Mostert.

Heading the photogenic cast is Mary Ruth Gerety, remembered for her outstanding work in "Outward Bound". Eleanor Conarro, with a well established record in college dramatics, bids fair to become not only a welcome addition to the Players' active list but also one of the most widely applauded finds of the season. Margaret Kroll is up to her usual fine form which she displayed in "Our Town", as is Meredith Jones, who did a convincing and professional

(Special Correspondence)
New York, Nov. 27.—That market research is no mere tabulation of statistics but an active force in finding the need for a product, assigning the product and measuring its sales effectiveness was illustrated here today by Frank Mansfield, Director of Sales Research for Sylvania Electric Products Inc.

Revealing the part research played in the production and distribution plans of the company's new "Handy 5 Pack" for incandescent light bulbs, Mr. Mansfield said that the new container is the direct result of findings in the first consumer lighting study, released by the company six months ago. The "Handy 5 Pack" is a pulp container of sufficient body to protect the bulbs and molded to form a partition for each bulb.

"The first lighting survey," Mr. Mansfield said, "was a study of people's buying habits, and it showed us that merchandising of electric light bulbs has been badly neglected. We found that while women buy twice as many electric light bulbs for the home as do men, the traditional package is not designed for them. Moreover, they buy only two or three bulbs at a time, mainly because there is nothing to encourage them to buy more, nor is there any way in which the bulbs can be stored safely and conveniently. Although half the wired homes in the country have empty sockets, there are only three spare bulbs in the average home, and these are stored in closets or cupboards, on shelves, or in drawers."

Another of the surveys which influenced design of the "Handy 5 Pack" was the discovery that people like to buy bulbs in grocery stores. However, the volume of residential lamp sales is made in units so small that they represent very little profit for the dealer.

"With these things in mind," Mr. Mansfield declared, "Sylvania Electric had designers make up trial packages containing five bulbs. The number five was decided upon in order to keep the price at 50 cents, as this is a better unit price."

After talking with both dealers and consumers, and getting a green light for the principle of a unit package, a batch of "Handy 5 Packs" was made up and put in selected retail stores throughout New England for testing. For the test, which was conducted over a six-week period, grocery stores from the small independent type to the giant super markets were used. Before the containers were put on display, the normal sale of bulbs over a two-week period was checked in each store, in order to get an idea of the amount people normally buy.

Because the company wanted to watch sales under as near normal conditions as possible, the five packs were put in the stores with no advertising and no extraordinary sales push by Sylvania or the dealers.

It was found that in all income groups, 64% of the customers preferred the new container, 29% clung to the old package and 7% would take the bulbs either way.

The majority of those in favor of the five pack liked it because it protects the bulbs and keeps them from slipping out or rubbing against each other, and because it is easier to handle and to carry. Others liked it because it is a flat package which is easy to store, because it keeps the bulbs together, is not bulky and permits them to have a few extra bulbs on hand.

"Settling the question of whether or not people will buy five bulbs at a time," declared Mr. Mansfield, "we found that an average of three out of every four women are willing to do so. And, proving their faith in the electrical lighting industry as a whole, is the fact that even a sealed carton, if accompanied by a guarantee, is acceptable to four out of five people."

Sales of incandescent bulbs doubled when the "Handy 5 Pack" was put in the stores. Normally, according to the study, bulb volume in the average grocery store or drug store is small because the usual purchase is one, two, or at the most three bulbs per customer. When the "Handy 5 Pack" was displayed, each purchaser bought five bulbs, meaning a fifty cent sale for the grocer, rather than a twenty or thirty cent sale.

The "Handy 5 Pack" was shown to both grocers and druggists, although actual tests were run only in grocery stores. When first shown the container, all classes of stores in both groups selected it by a wide margin and expressed preference for it because it means greater sales and more profit, and because it cuts down breakage, handles easier, can be displayed more attractively, and saves time and wrapping. Without a sales talk of any kind, over half the grocers and nearly half of the druggists interviewed said they would stock a sealed five pack.

"The test also told how the package should be made up," said Mr. Mansfield. "When given a choice between a container of bulbs all of one voltage, or leaving the package open for the customer to make a selection of different sizes, the vote was decidedly in favor of one wattage. An exception was the independent grocer who divided about evenly. Comparatively few, however, suggested a mixed pack."

Over three-fourths of the grocers and druggists felt that testing of bulbs in front of the customer is unnecessary and that a guarantee is sufficient. It was found that the majority of dealers don't test bulbs now.

Summed up, the opinion of the dealers, after they had taken into account all the aspects of the "Handy 5 Pack", was decidedly favorable. Considerably more than half of the grocers and druggists were interested in handling the new container for incandescent bulbs, and requests to stock the handy pack have come in from grocers all over the country.

The history, development and testing of the "Handy 5 Pack", according to Mr. Mansfield, was a research job from beginning to end. "It is a complete case history of the development of a package and a merchandising problem," he said. "Market research showed up the need for a convenient, easy to store package for light bulbs, tested the package after it was designed, and determined its sales possibilities."

The "Handy 5 Pack" will be used to sell Sylvania bulbs in the future, but it may not be available in quantity until early in 1946.

The real "take-home"

If wages go up and output does not—living costs rise. Then a man may be no better off than he was in the first place.

As a matter of fact, he may be worse off. Because that's the start of the inflation spiral with its mounting cyclone of confusion. And once the spiral starts, prices usually keep two jumps ahead of wages.

It doesn't help to have $2 to spend instead of $1, if eggs go to $1, then $1.50, then $2 a dozen—and butter and bread and shoes and shirts double, then triple, in price.

That's the trouble with the theory that you can increase buying power simply by raising wages.

The most important thing isn't what a man makes in wages per week—

The most important thing is how much he can buy with the wages he makes.

The "take-home" that really counts isn't what you take home in pay, but what you can take home from the store.

Army, Middy Squads Await Saturday's Clash; Two Local Boys Will Attend the Classic

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 27—(AP)—Frankenstein had nothing on Coach Earl (Red) Blaik, who at his workshop here on the banks of the Hudson has created a gridiron monster capable of smashing anything unfortunate enough to be caught in its path.

Like the scientist who constructed the mechanical man, however, Blaik is not always able to control the destructive power of his monster once it gets on a tear.

"We have no lust for overwhelming or belittling an opponent," Blaik declared between choirs as he mapped his battle plans for the national championship contest with Navy at Philadelphia Saturday.

The record will show that in winning 17 consecutive games since the start of the 1944 campaign the Cadets have piled up the amazing total of 884 points compared with 68 for their opponents. But in the eight games this year resulting in a total of 380 points for Army and 33 for its opponents the first team backfield of Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard, Shorty McWilliams and Arnold Tucker has played less than half the time.

This devastating quartet has scored 241 of those 380 points and its ability to run up the score is what gives Blaik the chance to insert his reserves for seasoning and according to the record he does just that at every opportunity.

Navy today turned to its courageous line to carry the fight to the Army in the hope of an upset victory in Saturday's national championship struggle.

"Rip" Miller, Navy's line coach, said frankly that the play of the Middles up front "can make a terrific difference."

"Our line has not folded once this season. Our poorest line play was in our victory over Wisconsin and that was because the boys were too eager, letting themselves in for a few traps."

The former Notre Dame star's chief concern was over the ability of Navy's line backers to stop Army's smashing ball carriers.

"More times than not, a line is no better than its line backers and our backstops have not been too varsity so far," he said. "They are pretty light and green."

Two warren boys will leave here Friday for Philadelphia, where they will see the Army-Navy game Saturday. They are Jack and David Hamilton, sons of Dr. and Mrs. E. Gail Hamilton, Market street. Dr. Hamilton has just been discharged from the navy.

Navy's line backers anticipate the most arduous afternoon of their football careers when they come up against Army's human tank, Doc Blanchard.

Miller is sold on the spirit of Navy's linemen.

"Their fighting qualities have been demonstrated time and again," he said. "They stopped Penn seven times inside Navy's 20. They held Notre Dame on the goal line."

Georgia Tech was clawing our eyes out down close but we stopped 'em. And we cut off Michigan just before the end of the first half when a Michigan score might have made a big difference in the game."

Tickets to the Army-Navy game are rarer than uranium, but a few ducats are available if a person wants to pay as high as $35 for a $4.80 seat behind the goalposts, the Philadelphia Record reported today.

Not many "outsiders" will attend the service classic at Municipal Stadium here Saturday.

That is, the expected 100,000 persons who will jam-pack the giant oval will be members of the Army and Navy athletic associations, high government officials, congressmen, Philadelphia city officials—and their friends.

The Record said the ticket situation shaped up this way, quoting West Point and Annapolis sources:

"No tickets have been sold except to members of the Army Athletic Association and a few to congressmen. We had to cut out the public sale of tickets because graduates returning from overseas hadn't seen a game in years oversubscribed the tickets"—West Point.

"This isn't like a Penn-Navy game. This is a game between the military Academy and the Naval Academy—and the services get tickets first."—Annapolis.

O'Connors, Penn Bottle Are Victors In Opening Y-City Basketball League Series

The first peacetime City Basketball League since 1940-1 barraged itself into the limelight last night on the newly-finished YMCA hardwood, and two Sheffield teams moved into a tie for first place honors.

In the preliminary, Sheffield's O'Connors Machine Shop outlasted the Times-Mirror quint, 22-19, and in the main attraction, The Sheffield Penn Bottle ran rampant over Sylva, 35-23.

These early season clashes last night made a definite indication as to who would be all-powerful in this year's loop. The Penn Bottles without a doubt established themselves as a threat, but Sylva's hopes were partly shattered. O'Connors did not show too outstanding in their win.

The first game was marked by poor ball-handling and roughness on the part of both teams. Both quintets were particularly poor at the free throw lane. O'Connors made good on four out of fourteen attempts, and the newspaper boys completed 5 out of 12. MacAvoy paced the winners with seven points, followed closely by Swanson with six. Bob Scalise, recently discharged from the navy, headed the Times with five, and Tony Thomason, who served during the war with the U. S. Merchant Marine, followed with 4.

The second game was far more interesting, and the two teams were more evenly matched. Sabot, ex-O'Connor now playing with the Penn Bottles, whipped 8 two-pointers and a foul shot through the hoop to lead the Bottlers with 17 points. Matthew Otto, last of the basketballing Ottos, tallied 8.

Sylva failed to make use of its available talent. Cutler, starting forward, was an all-state player at Michigan several years ago, and Grunzweig, starting center, ranges at 6'6". Both are stationed here with the army.

Penn Bottle took an early lead in the game and never relinquished it.

Thursday night, Bakers take on Blomquists in the 7:30 preliminary, and Struthers, rated as one of the leaders this season, will tangle with Youngsville Roller Rink.

H. S. Footballers Given Spaghetti Dinner Sunday

The Warren High School football team, and its coaching staff, was given a spaghetti dinner at the K. of C. Club Sunday evening.

The dinner was given by Frank Gerardi and James Scalise, respective fathers of Bob Gerardi veteran letterman-lineman, who was knocked out of action in the Jamestown game, and Jim Scalise, season fullback. The two boys were the only lettermen who returned to the 1945 squad from the preceding year. Cooking was done by Mrs. Frank Gerardi and Mrs. James Scalise.

Sam Gerardi acted as master of ceremonies and called upon both Bob Gerardi and Jim Scalise, team representatives; Harry Hutchings, assistant coach; James Scalise, Sr.; Frank Gerardi; and Coach J. B. Leidig, principal speaker.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON

New York, Nov. 27—(AP)—This is the time of year when most football coaches divide their time between thanking their stars and substitutions to eliminate those what they can do (a) to improve the game in general and (b) give one another a licking next fall ... Under the heading of improvement, Yale's Howie Odell would like to see the goal posts restored to the goal line in order to bring the field goal back into the college game. Columbia's Lou Little wants to adopt the pro rules on substitutions to eliminate those unnecessary time outs and to bring the ball in 20 yards from the sidelines instead of 15 ... National Football league statisticians figure it takes an extra second to bring the ball in the extra five yards, but that is compensated for by improving offensive possibilities ... As for the goal posts, why not offset posts with the uprights far enough back to avoid interference but the cross bar above the goal line?

LIGHT ENTERTAINMENT

Bob was whistle tooter for a night contest between Burlington and Hillsboro (N. C.) High Schools ... Burlington took the kickoff and ran it back to its own 25. Then time was called while Farrell explained a technical ruling ... Before they started again, the lights blew out and the game was called.

Individuals or groups which select one of these menus as a substitute for their regular meal on November 29, or as soon after as possible, should either send the difference in cost between the adopted menu and an American meal to the C.W.C.A. where it will be used to buy canned goods, or should buy food in No. 2 sized tin cans or larger and bring those to the Y.W.C.A. by 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, December 8th where all the cans of food will be packed and sent to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to distribute to those people in Europe and China.

Chapter 10

[Sunday 11:04 a.m. to 12:25 p.m.]

AS SOON as Virginia was gone Julia sat up. Her head throbbed painfully and she was quiet until the heavy pulsing died away and only the dull ache remained. Then she got out of bed and began to dress.

She walked straight and steadily, like a woman bearing a bowl on her head.

There was no one in the salon but she heard voices in the foyer. She glanced over the room hastily. Everything seemed to be in place.

She walked quickly through the salon and dining room. Moore stood in the butler's pantry. The hands of the clock back of him were at 11:25.

"I'm going out and I'd rather not be followed if you know how I can prevent it," she said.

Moore's hair looked more bushy than usual and his features were pinched. The sacks under his eyes were heavy and darkish.

"I won't tell them," he told her and his voice showed strain.

They are after him, thought Julia. And he's afraid. He could turn them on me.

"Moore, if we find who did it, we'll be safe," she ventured.

"Them dumb cops will never find out anything," indignation crept into his defeated tones.

"Where does Hank live?"

"Last I heard he was downtown on Morton Street but he hangs out at Mike's Bar about a block and a half from the theatre on the same side of the street. Even on Sundays."

"This is Sunday. I'd forgotten. Moore, could you find him and bring him to Jerry's apartment? I'll meet you there. He knows something and I have to find out."

The sudden interest in Moore's face made her pause.

"Do you know what it is?"

"No," he said, and Julia didn't believe him. "The cops won't waste time, though, about picking him up."

"Can we get out without being seen?"

"Yes, madam, if you can walk down ten flights of stairs to get out the servants' entrance."

"Where's Cook?"

"Out gossiping."

The outside door from the refrigerator room opened on a back corridor with an elevator and stairs used by the servants. There were two apartments on each floor. Moore opened the door a crack and Julia caught a glimpse of a blue uniformed figure sitting in a chair opposite the elevator reading a paper.

"We can't get out," she whispered.

"I'll fix it."

He went to the house phone in the kitchen and was connected with the apartment next door.

"Hello Margaret, my darling."

His voice had the whine of a spoiled lover. "Cook's been trying to inveigle me into a date and I wish you'd tell her where to jump off."

He was silent while blistering sounds came from the receiver.

"Well, I can't help it if I'm a blasted Golden Apple. You gotta tell her yerself."

There were more crackling sounds, then a click. Moore hung up and went back to the door and opened it enough to peek through.

"Take off your shoes and carry them," he said, and she obeyed.

Furious noises emerged from the opposite door. The policeman got up, folded his paper, and went to the door. It opened as he started to knock and a stout woman met him. They could not see her face for the policeman but they heard her.

"I'll learn you —" she began. Then, "Oh, it's you, is it?"

Julia did not hear any more. She had followed Moore to the open stairway when the guard first turned his back and they slipped silently down the first flight. Julia put on her pumps and saw that Moore had taken his shoes out of his pocket. She noted how unobtrusively he did everything.

When they reached the ground floor they separated with an agreement to meet at Jerry's.

Moore went out first and Julia waited. When she decided she had allowed Moore enough time she walked boldly to the street and turned toward Fifth Avenue.

There she hailed a cab and directed the driver to Jerry's apartment on 78th Street.

She leaned back in the cab and tried to rest but there were so many things coursing through her mind. First she must find out what it was Hank knew that Robey had been so desperately afraid he would tell. That was the first thing that had come to mind when the Inspector said he must have facts.

Also she wanted to know what Jerry meant by his reference to Robey's double. Could Robey have had an understudy who could pass for him off the stage? It sounded like an old melodrama but everything that happened seemed unreal and theatrical.

Suddenly she sat up in the cab. The woman in the red hat! She had forgotten her. What had she given Robey? That might be the clue to the whole mystery. But there was no way she could get in touch with her. She turned over several ideas and then hit upon one that seemed easiest. Directing the cab to drive to Sixth Avenue, she told him to stop at the first place where classified ads could be taken.

When he found a stationery store, Julia got out and told him to wait. She went in and had inserted under personals: "If the woman who lost a red hat on the street Saturday will answer this she will get her hat and a reward." She had the ad keyed and told them she would call for replies.

As she turned to leave she heard a tinkling sound. One of the clerks had taken an old light bulb from the socket and laid it on a glass case. She stood motionless for an instant, then went on to the cab.

She knew now where Robey had hidden the paper he got from the woman in the red hat.
